'Wizard' inviting all to the Halloween Howl

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Ghosts and goblins.
Happy spirits.
A "happy haunted graveyard."
All will be part of Antioch's downtown revitalization into Halloween Howl 1999.
"All of you little ghosts and goblins are welcome to join us for a howling good time," says
"Wizard," long time friend and coordinator of the Howl activities.

Downtown Antioch will be transformed into Halloween Howl
Oct. 22-23.

The entire downtown area will be magically transformed under the mysterious wizardry of "Wizard."

Hayrides will be held through the downtown area. Face painting will also be available.

Smiling Spirits, Happy Haunted Graveyard and Happy Ghosts are special areas Wizard has for youngsters or the weak at heart.
There will be games with candy and other prizes.

From there, a stroll through the Monster Museum is recommended. The older and more sturdy hearted goblin souls are invited to Journey into the Mummy's Tomb, Tunnel of Terror,
The Haunted Trail Ride and last but not least, if they dare, Dracu-la's Cave.

Those areas are not recommended by Wizard for those under 12 years of age.

A special Friday night only event is the Haunted Trail Ride

which starts after dark.

Pumpkin decorating and carving contests will be held on Lake Street Oct. 22-23. Those wishing to enter are advised to bring their own carving tools and decorating materials.

Great prizes will be awarded to the best pumpkins as judged by The Wizard.

Those wishing to build their own scarecrow can do that in front of the village hall. Clothes and straw will be provided. "All you need is an imagination," says Wizard. A $2 donation is requested. Proceeds go to the Antioch Mental Health Association.

The grand finale is Wizard's last Millennium Bash. That will be at 6 p.m., Oct. 23 at the William E.
Brook Park. A costume contest and bonfire will be held.

Wizard invites one and all to enjoy a safe and fun Halloween holiday season. Wizard asks everyone to remember it's "Be Nice To Wizard" month and to give Wizard lots of goodies.

Teacher 'excels' in the classroom

Susan Stevens earns state honors

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Great teachers learn from their students. Susan Stevens has learned well.

Stevens is a fourth and fifth grade teacher at W. C. Petty School in Antioch. She combines her own education, a Master's degree in gifted education, with what her students teach her in order to achieve more. The veteran of 18 years as a teacher uses what she learns from her two school age sons in her own classroom.

The combination has brought Stevens statewide recognition. On Oct. 16, the Illinois State Board of Education honored Stevens with an

the third grade on I wanted to be a teacher. I had a very energetic and motivating award of recognition in the 1999-2000 Those Who Excel in Education awards program. A banquet at Crowne Plaza Hotel in Springfield honored Stevens and other award recipients from across the state.

Grass Lake School planning expansion

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Expansion is better late than never.

Although Grass Lake School officials would have preferred to have construction underway, bids are being let for a 1999-2000 construction project.

Bids are being accepted for various parts of the project. The project is to include expansion of the cafeteria and the building of an additional three classrooms.

Bidders are advised to obtain specifications and submit bids which will be opened at 3 p.m., Nov.
9 at the Grass Lake School District offices.

Bids will be tabulated and submitted to the district board of education Friday, Nov. 12. Action as to awarding bids or not is expected at the board meeting Nov. 16.

"We hope to start construction no later than the spring and continue through the summer until it's all ready for the fall opening of school," said Dr. Jim Beveridge, district superintendent.

The enrollment within the district's K-8 school is at 300, according to Beveridge.

"Our enrollment isn't really the problem," explains Beveridge. "The housing of the students and teachers is not acceptable."

An art teacher forced to carry materials from classroom to classroom because of no space for her to have a classroom of her own is an example Beveridge gave of the space problem.

"Some of our children are eating on the stage," Beveridge continued.
"Our goal is to make a better environment all of the way around."

'ALL' coming together for ACHS Red Ribbon

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

All together.
That is the idea behind the ALL (Antioch, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst) Parent Network.

The Red Ribbon Week for Antioch Community High School (ACHS) began at the Oct. 9 football game with the sale of red ribbons and car magnets. The sale continued through the Oct. 16 home game against Warren.

All representatives and students from the Sequoit Pride organization will join ALL members Friday through Sunday, Oct. 22-24 handing out ribbons throughout the Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst communities.

A new item available this year is a temporary vehicle window decal.

There is no set price for the items. Donations are encouraged.

The Antioch ALL base will be Brad Ipsen's American Family Insurance. Lindenhurst base and drop off site will be Century 21 Leech & Associates on Grand Avenue in Lindenhurst.

Proceeds go to the annual post-prom event for ACHS. The spring activity includes hiring motor coach buses to transport prom attendees and their guests to Chicago's Lake Michigan Navy Pier. From there, they board the Odyssey which is exclusively rented for ACHS. Following a midnight-4 a.m. sale, students and chaperones are returned by motorcoach to the high school.

"It's a completely safe and drug free environment," explained Vickie Westergaard of ALL.

The September winner is Robin Allbee.

Raffle tickets for October's drawing are available at Choosey Child. Tickets are $3 each or two for $5.

The three Beanie Baby Bears in this drawing are "99 Holiday," "White Face Spangle" and "The End."

Drawing for the October winner will be on Nov. 15 at Choosey Child.

Westergaard expressed ALL's appreciation to Barbara Porch, owner of Choosey Child, for donating the Bears and hosting the raffle.

The Maze offers an 'A-mazing' good time

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Can you find your way through a maze?

The opportunity to find out is coming to Antioch.

Antioch Evangelical Free Church (AEFC) is hosting its traditional 'A-mazing' Maze Wednesday through Saturday, Oct. 27-30 at the church, 750 Highview Drive in Antioch.

Each year the AEFC senior high students puts on The Maze offering a Halloween alternative activity for the community. In its fourth year this fall, The Maze has drawn up to over 2,000 persons making an attempt to complete the course. Thus far none have remained lost.

The senior high spends about two weeks building the intricate maze of wood and huge boxes. Included are ramps, tilts, slides, trick doors, special rooms, twists and turns, all connected.

The average person takes 30 to 40 minutes to complete The Maze.

All profits benefit the youth program's budget for the year.

The Maze hours are 6-9 p.m. Oct. 27-28, 4-6 p.m. with the lights on Oct. 29-30 and 6-9 p.m. with lights off Oct. 29-30.

Admission fee for The Maze is $3 per person.

The Maze '99 is being presented by Scandal for Christ, AEFC's senior high youth group. There will be two maze courses. Christian music, concessions including fresh mini-donuts and caramel apples, along with drama skits will be part of the experience.

For additional information phone 395-4117.

Annexations to include building specifications

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Wait just one minute.
That is the call from Trustee Marvin Oldenburger regarding annexation requests for property on the east end of Antioch.

Oldenburger strongly requested Village Attorney Ken Clark to include a provision in the pre-annexation agreement requiring the petitioners to submit agreeable specifications for any residential development to take place.

The desire to make sure the village has a say in the type and size of development is the result of previous annexations which did not specify conditions. The result was smaller lot sizes and more units than the village board desires at this time.

The discussion came about during Clark's updating of the board on talks with the Doolittle family concerning a parcel of 4.288 acres. Clark explained the Doolit-tle's will have to go before the village zoning board for granting of agricultural classification. The way the village ordinances are written, if the parcel was five acres or more it could come into the village without going before the zoning board.

Since it is less than the required acreage, the Doolittles have the choice of adding land to the parcel to meet the requirement or going before the zoning board. Clark informed the board Doolittles are intending to keep the parcel at its present size.

The Doolittle parcel is adjacent to the Timber Lake Park property along Route 45 just south of Route 173. Owners for both parcels are in the process of working out pre-annexation agreements with the village.

Owners of Timber Lake Park, a long time recreational camp ground, Kenneth J. Glick announced at the village board's Oct. 4 meeting the park will close following the 2000 camping season.

CLARIFICATION

An article in the Oct. 15 issue of Lakeland Newspapers inadvertently had senior citizens able to receive discount user fee stickers from the Fox Waterway Agency. In reality, signatures on a petition are being collected by the United Homeowners Associations of Unincorporated Antioch requesting the agency offer such a senior citizen discount. Lakeland Newspapers regrets any confusion the article may have caused.

Giving blood helps the 'heart and soul'

What an experience.
Giving the gift of life. Blood.
After wanting to do it for sometime, yours truly went to the Antioch Community Blood Drive at the Antioch Moose Lodge.

Following the preliminary paperwork, Life Source personnel and community organization volunteers recommended I have some fluids. Since I had just officiated a high school football game, they suggested I get some more fluid in my system.

Guess I should have had more. About midway through the actual blood giving process, I became a little woozy and "pale" according to some of the Life Source personnel. After relaxing a little longer than usual, along with having some more juice and some snacks, I survived.

Next time, I plan to eat and drink more prior to giving. The following organizations banned together to hold the annual blood drive. Antioch Moose Lodge, Antioch Woman's Club, Antioch Junior Woman's Club, Antioch Lions Club, Antioch Masonic Temple, Northern Illinois Conservation Club and Antioch Rotary Club.

Although the number of pints given was down a little from years past, any contribution is good. As the poster says, "Give Blood, for Your Heart and Soul."

Congratulations to Rick and Friedel Kuehn of Lake Villa on becoming grandparents for the sixth time.

Gino Funari, a bouncing baby boy, was born to parents Nick and Stephanie Funari.

Rick was proudly telling everyone at the Antioch Rotary Club meeting. It'll be a thankful Thanksgiving and a busy holiday season around the Kuehn household.

Speaking of babies, regarding Rotary president Matt Tabar's new baby-sitting service, Kevin Lyons was telling him his children always stay up late...9 or 10 o'clock, even on a school night. Tabar was hoping he would be able to put the children to sleep early on January 2, since the next day is the first day back to school following winter break.

Matt's "child care" services were purchased by Lyons during the Antioch Rotary Club auction. Matt is hoping the children enjoy the various bowl games which will be on, along with NFL football.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Mike Babicz at 223-8161, ext. 138 or e-mail, edit@lnd.com.

Tragic accident kills two teens

Two Carmel grads die in crash

By ANGELA D. SYKORA
Staff Reporter

Two area teenagers lost their lives in an automobile accident Oct. 14 at 5:57 p.m. on Highway 20 and County J near East Troy in southern Wisconsin. Two other teenagers were injured as a result of the crash.

Patrick J. Kurpiewski, 18, of Gurnee, was pronounced dead at the scene at 6:20 p.m. He was a 1999 graduate and football player at Carmel High School in Mundelein.

Brooke M. Daus, 18, of Gurnee, was pronounced dead at the scene at 6:20 p.m. She was also a 1999 graduate of Carmel High School, and a former cheerleader.

Heather M. Carter, 18, of Wadsworth, and Elizabeth A. Bauer, 18, of Arlington Heights, were listed in critical, but stable condition in the intensive care unit of Froedtert Memorial Lutheran Hospital in Milwaukee.

Carter, a 1999 graduate of Carmel High School, and Bauer, were flown by helicopter to the hospital after the accident.

According to reports from the Walworth County Sheriff's Department, the accident occurred after Carter's 1998 Saturn coupe was struck on the passenger side by a 1996 Ford pickup truck driven by Walter J. Koshen, 37, of Milton, Wis. The Saturn, driven by Carter, stopped at a stop sign and then proceeded into the intersection to make a left turn.

Koshen's pickup truck was driving westbound on County J going straight, when it struck the Saturn on the passenger side.

Both vehicles then left the roadway and ended up on the northwest corner in a grass and tree area.

Koshen was treated at a nearby hospital and released.

"The student body is devastated," said Maureen Balzer, director of marketing at Carmel High School, where Kurpiewski, Daus and Carter all graduated in 1999.

"Carmel is a loving, close community of administrators, faculty and students. We are praying for the families to be able to deal with this tragedy."

Balzer said Carmel students were offered counseling support and were wearing ribbons "to honor their talents and contributions to Carmel High School."

All four teens were freshman at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

John Hopkins, vice president of communications at Marquette University, said the accident was a "terrible tragedy."

A mass was held Oct. 15 at the university. Hopkins said over 350 students attended the memorial, and that they are "praying for the young women who are still hospitalized."

letter, which appeared very official from the state board of education, I thought it was notification something was wrong with my teaching certificate," Stevens admits. "I was extremely surprised when I opened it. I had no idea I was even nominated."

The nomination source remained a mystery for some time. Until Stevens was talking with Lynn Harrison, a teaching colleague. "She didn't know I didn't know who nominated me, and she told me Dr. (Daniel) Bruce had initiated it."

A education career spanning 18 years including three years at the Newport School District (now Beach Park) and 15 years in Antioch began when Stevens was very young.

"I knew from when I was in the third grade on I wanted to be a teacher," Stevens explained. "I had a very energetic and motivating third grade teacher."

That spirit of teaching sparked Stevens into "playing school" as a child. "I created worksheets and papers," Stevens said with a smile. "I was the oldest of five children. I taught my sister (Michelle Menages, and grade teacher at Oakland Elementary School in Antioch) how to read."

"I used an old 'Dick and Jane' book to teach her," Stevens said. "I don't use it anymore in the classroom, but I do have it."

A book collection, including 'Dick and Jane,' is one of the first things which Stevens showed her sons. "There's still aspects of it kids enjoy, but I wouldn't use it in school."

Stevens continues to have contact with her own third grade teacher. Ms. Carol Bushier lives in Wooster, Ohio. As of two years ago, when Stevens last contacted her, she is still teaching.

Over Stevens own career in teaching, she has taught all levels from pre-school through fifth grade. The past five years have been spent in a "looping" system. A specific class starts with their teacher in fourth grade and stays together in fifth grade.

Stevens beginning of a third loop starting with fourth graders.

"Looping and the relationship I'm able to build with the students helps with the parents as well," Stevens said. "In the second year, it's really wonderful. The parents know your expectations."

"Looping fosters the idea you don't just learn things in isolation," Stevens continued. "Learning is an ongoing process."

On the wall of Stevens classroom is the motto "This is a positive thinking area."

This is the environment which Stevens fosters in the appearance of her room and the way she works with her students. This year's class started the year with 28 students. It was reduced partway into the year due to an additional fourth grade class being added with the hiring of another teacher. Four of Stevens students went to the new classroom.

"Several years ago, I had a learning disabled and gifted student cluster in the same classroom together,"

Stevens recalled. "I work toward building a classroom community with everyone working together and recognizing other students' abilities."

"I found that kids embraced that," Stevens said. "They don't have an attitude that somebody's different or they're wrong and I'm better."

The textbook is more of a guide to Stevens, not the only material she uses to teach. "I develop a lot of units where I don't teach strictly from the text book," Stevens said. "I develop lesson plans for varying ability levels."

Adopting the ideals and attitude of her third grade teacher, Stevens opens much of her own life to her students.

Stevens has expanded on that concept. Every year, Stevens opens her home to her students and parents for a Christmas gathering. Some of her students have come over to make holiday cookies. In the summer, Stevens hosts a pool party.

"It's important to establish a relationship with them, to let them see you as a person," Stevens said. "I don't mind running into students at the Jewel, library or in my neighborhood."

"There's a difference between being their friend and being their teacher," emphasized Stevens. "Students need to know you care about them as a person and not just a student."

Stevens two sons, 6th grade Antioch Upper Grade School student Dan and Antioch Lower Grade School first grader Tommy, along with husband Greg, are very much a part of her life with her students.

A paper her youngest, Tommy, brought home shows the kind of positive impact Stevens has even on her own children. It said, "I want to be a teacher at Petty School," along with a drawing of Stevens' classroom.

All three of her family members, especially the boys, come to her school and help out in her classroom, especially on the weekends.

"You need to expect highs and lows," Stevens said, admitting she is pursuing her Type 75 administrative certification and some day might want to be a school principal. "It's a very rewarding career."

"You will learn more as a teacher then you ever did as a student," Stevens emphasized. "Students teach you so much."

For Stevens, the lessons of life which she passes on are rooted in her own past as a student.

The extra things that third grade teacher did for her and her classmates "stays in my mind more than any academic lesson."

At the rate Stevens is going, the same will be said by her own students 20 years from now.

Ms. Illinois highlighting busy St. Peter's Red Ribbon Week

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ

Here she is...Ms. Illinois!

That will be the special introduction for 1999 Ms. Illinois Jade Smalls. Smalls will address students of St. Peter's Catholic School in Antioch Monday, Oct. 25 in two sessions from 9-9:45 a.m. and 10-10:45 a.m.

The topic for Ms. Smalls will be in conjunction with the school's Red Ribbon Week activities.

The 10-day "week" begins Friday, Oct. 22 with a Halloween Costume Party "Say Boo To Drugs" to be held at 6 p.m. followed by a student dance.

On Wednesday, Oct. 27, "Lights, Camera, Action" will be presented at a 9 a.m. all school assembly.

Other class room events will be held throughout the week.

Grass Lake School in Antioch is combining an anti-violence theme with the "Just Say No" to drugs and gangs message of Red Ribbon.

Supt. Dr. Jim Beveridge explained students will view various video-tapes on the aspects of violence in America followed by discussion with teachers and staff members.

The Antioch Police Department DARE Unit will be making presentations coinciding with the "Just Say No To Drugs" theme.

A all school assembly will be held sometime during the Red Ribbon week, with the exact day and time to be announced.

Antioch Grade School District 34 has various activities planned throughout the week.

Oakland and Antioch Lower Grade School, both K-3 buildings, will have different activities depending upon the grade level.

Kindergarten classes will be planting red tulips on their respective school grounds. The date and time is dependent upon weather.

Second and third grade students will have various classroom activities involving educational booklets.

Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS) students will visit the third grade classrooms reading The Red Ribbon Story to them. AUGS students will be at Antioch Lower Grade School (ALGS) at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26. They will visit Oakland Grade School third graders at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Chris Newton, District 34 prevention services coordinator, explained a red ribbon paper chain will be created by students at the lower grade buildings. "Students will be encouraged to put an alternative idea to taking drugs on a piece of red paper. The paper will be linked together with other ideas from their classroom, then linked with other classrooms."

"The idea is we are all linked together for a bright future drug free," Newton continued. "The linking of all the classrooms together shows how we can link with each other for support."

Depending upon weather, plans are to link all of the chains together and line Main Street in Antioch as a demonstration of the school's unification. The time and date will be announced by school officials.

K-3 parents are being encouraged to send drug free messages to school for their children throughout the week.

In the W.C. Petty School, grades 4 and 5 will have daily announcements and questions regarding drugs, their effects and drug free alternatives, will be given. Classroom visits are planned by various prevention and education specialists throughout the week.

AUGS will be doing various activities during their "Prime Time" class periods. In addition some of the AUGS students will be involved visiting other Antioch schools.

An all school assembly is planned for Monday, Oct. 25 at Oakland Grade School featuring the Dream Machine.

Emmons School officials do not plan on having any special activities for Red Ribbon Week this year.

Edinburgh,

The Scottish Capital Built Around a Castle

by JIM WARREN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

Airfare to the UK is quite reasonable at the moment, so I thought I might spend a couple of days in London. This was a last-minute decision, so I had to settle for a flight into Glasgow, Scotland with a return from London. Since the super fast Britrail trains make the trip from Glasgow to London in about 4 hours, this posed no great problem.

According to my Britrail representative, the most scenic train route from Scotland to London, is from Edinburgh, the capital of Scotland. Edinburgh is only an hour from Glasgow, so I thought I would include a day in Edinburgh and get the train to London from there. As it turned out, Edinburgh was the highlight of my trip.

My flight landed at Glasgow airport about 10 AM and after clearing customs, I caught a bus to the train station in town where I boarded one of the bi-hourly trains to Edinburgh. I was at Waverley Station in downtown Edinburgh by noon.

Upon reaching the top of the stairs at Waverley, I exited on to Prince Street (Edinburgh's version of Michigan Ave.). I turned, looked up, and was overwhelmed by the sight of a 1,000-year-old castle high on a hill right in the middle of the city! I've visited many castles on my trips to Europe, but never one so easily accessible.

I quickly checked into the Hotel George and headed back toward the castle. The path to the castle took me past a little park right out of "Mary Poppins", complete with a merry-go-round, and then up a steep hill through beautifully landscaped flower gardens.

The magnificent view of the city and surrounding terrain from the castle is not only breathtaking, but also gives one an idea of the strategic importance of the location of the castle during Scotland's wars of independence.

Once inside I was treated to the sight of Scotland's ancient crown jewels which were missing for over a hundred years and found at the bottom of an oak chest in a small room in the castle in 1818.

I had reservations on the 9 AM train to London the next day. Even though my time in London was already limited, I still chose to change my plans and take the 1 PM train instead, just so I could have a few more hours in the intriguing city of Edinburgh.

Ms. Illinois highlighting busy St. Peter's Red Ribbon Week

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ

Here she is...Ms. Illinois!

That will be the special introduction for 1999 Ms. Illinois Jade Smalls. Smalls will address students of St. Peter's Catholic School in Antioch Monday, Oct. 25 in two sessions from 9-9:45 a.m. and 10-10:45 a.m.

The topic for Ms. Smalls will be in conjunction with the school's Red Ribbon Week activities.

The 10-day "week" begins Friday, Oct. 22 with a Halloween Costume Party "Say Boo To Drugs" to be held at 6 p.m. followed by a student dance.

On Wednesday, Oct. 27, "Lights, Camera, Action" will be presented at a 9 a.m. all school assembly.

Other class room events will be held throughout the week.

Grass Lake School in Antioch is combining an anti-violence theme with the "Just Say No" to drugs and gangs message of Red Ribbon.

Supt. Dr. Jim Beveridge explained students will view various video-tapes on the aspects of violence in America followed by discussion with teachers and staff members.

The Antioch Police Department DARE Unit will be making presentations coinciding with the "Just Say No To Drugs" theme.

A all school assembly will be held sometime during the Red Ribbon week, with the exact day and time to be announced.

Antioch Grade School District 34 has various activities planned throughout the week.

Oakland and Antioch Lower Grade School, both K-3 buildings, will have different activities depending upon the grade level.

Kindergarten classes will be planting red tulips on their respective school grounds. The date and time is dependent upon weather.

Second and third grade students will have various classroom activities involving educational booklets.

Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS) students will visit the third grade classrooms reading The Red Ribbon Story to them. AUGS students will be at Antioch Lower Grade School (ALGS) at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26. They will visit Oakland Grade School third graders at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Chris Newton, District 34 prevention services coordinator, explained a red ribbon paper chain will be created by students at the lower grade buildings. "Students will be encouraged to put an alternative idea to taking drugs on a piece of red paper. The paper will be linked together with other ideas from their classroom, then linked with other classrooms."

"The idea is we are all linked together for a bright future drug free," Newton continued. "The linking of all the classrooms together shows how we can link with each other for support."

Depending upon weather, plans are to link all of the chains together and line Main Street in Antioch as a demonstration of the school's unification. The time and date will be announced by school officials.

K-3 parents are being encouraged to send drug free messages to school for their children throughout the week.

In the W.C. Petty School, grades 4 and 5 will have daily announcements and questions regarding drugs, their effects and drug free alternatives, will be given. Classroom visits are planned by various prevention and education specialists throughout the week.

AUGS will be doing various activities during their "Prime Time" class periods. In addition some of the AUGS students will be involved visiting other Antioch schools.

An all school assembly is planned for Monday, Oct. 25 at Oakland Grade School featuring the Dream Machine.

Emmons School officials do not plan on having any special activities for Red Ribbon Week this year.

Edinburgh,

by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

Airfare to the UK is quite reasonable at the moment, so I thought I might spend a couple of days in London. This was a last-minute decision, so I had to settle for a flight into Glasgow, Scotland with a return from London. Since the super fast Britrail trains make the trip from Glasgow to London in about 4 hours, this posed no great problem.

According to my Britrail representative, the most scenic train route from Scotland to London, is from Edinburgh, the capital of Scotland. Edinburgh is only an hour from Glasgow, so I thought I would include a day in Edinburgh and get the train to London from there. As it turned out, Edinburgh was the highlight of my trip.

My flight landed at Glasgow airport about 10 AM and after clearing customs, I caught a bus to the train station in town where I boarded one of the bi-hourly trains to Edinburgh. I was at Waverley Station in downtown Edinburgh by noon.

Upon reaching the top of the stairs at Waverley, I exited on to Prince Street (Edinburgh's version of Michigan Ave.). I turned, looked up, and was overwhelmed by the sight of a 1,000-year-old castle high on a hill right in the middle of the city! I've visited many castles on my trips to Europe, but never one so easily accessible.

I quickly checked into the Hotel George and headed back toward the castle. The path to the castle took me past a little park right out of "Mary Poppins", complete with a merry-go-round, and then up a steep hill through beautifully landscaped flower gardens.

The magnificent view of the city and surrounding terrain from the castle is not only breathtaking, but also gives one an idea of the strategic importance of the location of the castle during Scotland's wars of independence.

Once inside I was treated to the sight of Scotland's ancient crown jewels which were missing for over a hundred years and found at the bottom of an oak chest in a small room in the castle in 1818.

I had reservations on the 9 AM train to London the next day. Even though my time in London was already limited, I still chose to change my plans and take the 1 PM train instead, just so I could have a few more hours in the intriguing city of Edinburgh.

It certainly isn't 'mom's' best friend

The first thing she noticed missing was a couple of banana muffins. Perhaps they had been sitting on the kitchen counter that morning when she came down for breakfast, perhaps they weren't—she really couldn't remember, and with the wakings of a new day, she really didn't have time to ponder it.

A couple of days later she distinctly remembers counting out enough cupcakes for her daughter to take to school to celebrate her birthday. Yet when it came time to box them up that morning, three were missing.

Now mom was a bit aggravated, grilled the denying children as to whom had eaten the absent cupcakes, and guaranteed no afternoon snack following school that day for any of them. Through moans and protests, mom stood her ground and the afternoon ritual of snacks and homework was void of snacks.

Several days later, mom's good spatula lay in the middle of the living room floor. Although daughter number two occasionally borrowed mom's cooking utensils to play "Chef Stef," she usually always returned them to the kitchen to be washed and put in their proper place. Mom scooped up the gadget, and upon entering the kitchen, tripped over a large cookie sheet that was lying on the tiled floor. She was about to call out to her miniature resident chef when she spotted one of her cooling racks resting on the rug in front of the kitchen sink.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

Puzzlement had turned to irritation, and as mom bent over to pick up the cooling rack, a string of unkind thoughts raced through her mind and were about to be unleashed on an unsuspecting daughter. As mom was straightening from her bent position, her eyes became level with the countertop. Suddenly she bobbed up like a cork in water and let out a stream of less than lady like words, directed apparently at no one in particular, just a vent of sheer anger.

Just minutes before, she had pulled a freshly baked, homemade coffee cake out of the oven. She had put it on the counter to cool, and went upstairs to make the beds. She had been on her way back down to sprinkle it with drizzle when she noticed the spatula on the living room floor and had been side-tracked by the lounging pan and wayward cooling rack. The same spatula, pan and cooling rack that, not 10 minutes earlier, had been residing on the now empty kitchen counter top. And why is that (feel free to insert your own obscenities here) dog drinking so much water.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Spine-tingling tales at the Volo Bog

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

One night each autumn, just before Halloween, a crowd gathers in a cold, dark picnic area just over the hill from Volo Bog. They huddle against the chill of the air as well as the chill of hair-raising tales of a storyteller. Hot cider and layers of blankets help to ward off the shivers.

The event is from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 23.

This year promises to be the scariest yet as storyteller Vicki Elberfeld of Park Ridge closes out the century of Volo Bog's Ghost Story tradition. She draws on life's experiences as well as traditional tales to wave some real spine tingers. She's been sharing tales at libraries, coffee houses and festivals for over a decade. Opening for Elberfeld will be Amy Beth of Woodstock, a musician and herself a bit of a storyteller. Together, they promise to make this an evening that will haunt listeners into the next millennium.

Volo Bog's Ghost Stories is an event for people of all ages. The evening begins with tales that youngsters, age 5 minimum, as well as adults enjoy. After an intermission, tales get scarier and more adult-oriented.

Reservations are required to obtain a parking pass needed to attend Ghost Stories and can be made by calling Volo Bog at (815) 344-1294. Ameritech Relay No. for the hearing impaired is 1-800-526-0844. Donations of $3 for adults and $1 for children will be requested as this is a Friends of the Volo Bog event. The event has been offered for more than 10 years. It is co-sponsored by the Friends of the Volo Bog and Volo Bog State Natural Area, an Illinois Department of Natural Resources site, located on Brandenburg Road west of Route 12 between Routes 120 and 134 in Inglewood.

"Suite" Home Chicago!

It doesn't get any better than this. In front of the usual partisan and rockin' crowd at the United Center, Blackhawk legend Bobby Hull dropped the first puck in the Hawks home opener a couple of weeks ago.

And there was no better place (besides being next to the glass on the ice) than to view the evenings festivities than from high above in one of the UC's two new luxurious, 80-person 'Super Suites.'

Well, thanks to Howard Pizer, Executive Vice President of the United Center and J. Curtis Baddeley, Manager of Rental Suites, yours truly had the honor of being apart of the christening.

The new 'Super Suites' were developed as part of an ongoing effort to expand the United Center and its accommodations.

"We are responding to a consumer demand that we have had for years," said Pizer in a brief presentation before the Hawks tangled with the Phoenix Coyotes.

"Not only are they perfect for corporate entertainment, they are attracting people who want an exciting setting for a party or special event. They also provide luxurious settings for business meetings. And all end with a bang—a game, concert or a host of other events."

The suites are available for rent during all activities at the United Center.

The two suites, fittingly named the Blackhawks Super Suite and the Bulls Super Suite, are located on the penthouse level on the east and west ends of the arena, respectively.

Both offer clear views of the action on the UC floor.

Each is luxuriously furnished with a solid maple bar with granite counter top, leather furniture, two state-of-the-art 50" plasma flat screen television sets and game seats that overlook the action.

Each 2,400 square-foot Super Suite includes its own private lounge, which may be used as a reception or dining area.

The two private lounges are equipped with buffet food service accommodations and two additional 50" plasma flat screen televisions. Located across the hall from the bar and viewing areas of the main floor, the lounges both offer the best in panoramic views of the city.

Now, an 80-person Super Suite package runs around $8,000, tax included, for Bulls and Blackhawks games. Prices differ for other events. In addition, 16 parking passes are also included.

One can also rent out the lounges and suites to accommodate 40 people, for which the price will be $5,000, which includes complete food package, four-hour open bar, eight parking passes, and a service attendant and bartender.

And speaking of food, you will most likely find New Zealand lamb chops, chicken tenderloin strips, a vegetable platter, beef tenderloin platter, and succulent jumbo gulf shrimp.

Not too bad if you think about it about a buck-and-a-quarter per person.

For more information on renting the super suites, call give Curtis a jingle at (312) 455-4119.

Only thing that needed to be addressed was the Blackhawks, who jumped to a 3-1 lead before settling for a 3-3 deadlock.

Sequoits face must-win after stumbling against Warren, 25-14

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

This is what high school sports, football in particular, is all about.

Surely, the Antioch varsity football team would rather have a different set of circumstances heading into this Friday's must-win contest against mighty North Suburban champion Stevenson.

It's plain and simple: win or not Antioch, now 5-3 overall (4-2 NSC) into the playoffs. A loss, well, it was a good season.

"They've been able to run on everyone all year," said head coach Del Pechauer. "The key to beating them will be to stop their runs and try and get ours going. It's definitely the biggest game of the year for us and by all means, not going to be an easy task."

The Sequoits playoff run took a turn for the worse when it was upset last week by the upstart Warren Blue Devils, 25-14.

Don Lackey and the passing game looked invisible in the first half as the hosts jumped to a 14-12 advantage.

Lackey had one of his best games of the year passing, completing 21-for-38 for 242 yards.

"We didn't put enough pressure on him in the first half," said Warren head coach Dave Mohapp. "But we made adjustments and used a solid zone in the second half. And that seemed to work for us."

The teams traded big blows in the second quarter. Warren's Matt Vandaele raced 99 yards for a touchdown to open the scoring.

But wait—here came the Sequoits. Mark Purnell answered by rumbling 63 yards as Antioch jumped ahead, 7-6.

Vandaele and Purnell would again trade touchdowns by halftime, with Vandaele going 6 yards for a score with Purnell racing in from two yards out.

But Vandaele would have the last laugh and the Warren defense stiffened in the second half, a combination difficult to overcome by the opposition.

Vandaele would add his third score of the game on a one-yard scamper in the third quarter. In between, Dante Daniels, the area's Pre-season Player of The Year, turned in his best performance of the season at the running back position, racing for 128 yards on 25 carries, including a 37-yard run early in the third quarter.

Daniels hasn't seen too much time running the ball due to an injury. His main role thus far in the season has been on the defensive side of the ball.

And speaking of defense, Warren's was tough on Saturday, forcing five Sequoit turnovers, three of which came when Antioch had the ball inside the five yard line.

Vandaele also made his presence felt on defense, picking off two Lackey passes.

"They are really big up front," said Pechauer. "We only ran the ball 11 times. Our plan was to run, but when we had difficulty doing that we had to turn to the passing game. That was working for us."

Vandaele finished with 184 yards on 20 carries while Purnell of the Sequoits tallied 72 yards on seven attempts.

"He's a tremendous player and has been hurting teams all season," added Pechauer.

Antioch wide receiver Eric White turned in another solid game, catching eight balls for 121 yards. White is one of the area's leading receivers with 780 yards.

Warren outgained Antioch 346-87 via the ground.

Warren, which improved to 5-3 overall and 4-2 in the conference, has an easier road to the playoffs when it travels to 2-6 Lake Forest this Saturday for a 1 p.m. contest.

"We're just trying to get to the next level," added Mohapp. "You can't underestimate anyone in this conference."

Sequoits roll behind Miclea's hat trick

Sports Editor

If things keep going the way they are, look for the Antioch varsity soccer team to make some major noise in the upcoming sectionals.

The Sequoits will host either Round Lake or Warren next Tuesday in the first round of the Grayslake Sectional.

Antioch got a nice tuneup Tuesday night, defeating visiting Rockford Jefferson 5-0 at Polley Field in Antioch.

Matt Miclea was the go-to guy once again, scoring three goals as the hosts improved to 15-3-3 on the season.

Miclea, who has rewritten just about every Sequoit record, now has 31 goals on the season.

The first Miclea goal was a head-off of a pass from Clint Ludden as Antioch took a 1-0 advantage into halftime.

Then the Sequoits poured it on in the second half, using nice passing and ball control to put the game out of reach.

Ludden knocked one through the uprights to open the scoring in the second stanza. He was assisted by Steve Alberts.

Miclea then recorded his second shortly after when Matt Peterson assisted off of a beautiful corner kick.

Alberts then got into the scoring column when he blasted one in on an unassisted breakaway.

Miclea wasn't finished, putting the icing on the Sequoits victory with about seven minutes remaining.

Clarke, Antioch cross country excel at Prospect

Boys team finishes in fourth place

Sports Editor

It's not how you start, but how you finish. And now is the time to finish strong and that's just what Holly Clarke and the Sequoit varsity girls cross country team is doing as the sectionals are fast approaching.

Clarke, only a sophomore, claimed third place Monday in the seven-team Prospect Invitational.

Furthermore, Clarke's finish allowed the Lady Sequoits to capture first place with 52 points.

Youth is on the Sequoits side, as freshman Amanda Hammond's complemented Clarke by taking home a sixth-place medal.

Clarke's time was 16:25 while Hammond posted a time of 16:33 over the 2.5 mile course.

Sophomore Sara Brezezinski (17:15) and freshman Lauren Cole (17:18) finished 11th and 14th, re-

Freshman Emily Bock wasn't far behind, finishing 22nd with a time of 17:40. Sophomore Laura Hammond (18:17) and senior Erin Beinecke (18:57) finished 36th and 45th, respectively.

Meanwhile, the boys team tallied 92 points in finishing fourth over the 3-mile layout.

"Pack running" was definitely the ticket as junior Derick Anhalt (18:06) and sophomore Matt Schmitz (18:07) finished 16th and 17th, respectively.

Close behind was Buzz Leffelmann and Sean Pondell in 19th and 20th. Leffelmann's time was 18:11 while Pondell clocked in at 18:15.

Freshman Mike Addison (18:30) finished 26th and junior Eric Langer (18:35) was 27th.

Last weekend, Clarke picked up a 13th place medal with a time of 16:15 in the North Suburban Conference meet. In the team standings, the Sequoit girls finished fourth with 108 points while the boys team claimed fifth place with 133 points.

'Goblin 250' closes out on-track season at Lake Geneva

Calin dispels Wilmot closing rumors

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

LET'S GO RACING . . .

Michael H. Babicz

The 1999 regular racing season is drawing to a close.

The on-track season, that is.

The final track action in the Lakeland area is Sunday, Oct. 24 at Lake Geneva Raceway.

The traditional Goblin 250 is scheduled to take the green flag rain or shine at 1 p.m. this Sunday afternoon. The event is the season finale for the Midwest Enduro Stock Car Series.

Among the participants will be Antioch's Bill Ring, featured in last week's Lakeland newspapers; Zion's Mike "Beagle Dog" Beagle; and, Gurnee's Jay LeBrun are among the participants planning to compete.

The season championship battle is coming down to a three-way mathematical tussle.

Tom Barnharst of Hales Corners, Wis., who cut his teeth racing on the dirt at the Hales Corners Speedway in Franklin, Wis.,

is in the driver's seat. If Barnharst stays out of trouble, always a challenge in enduro racing, he will score his first-ever series crown. This would mark a ten place improvement for Barnharst, who claimed 10th place for the 1998 campaign.

Past series champion Darryl Traber of Waterford has a mathematical shot at Barnharst and is second in points.

Frank Calabrese of Black Creek, winner at the Cedar Rapids, Iowa event Oct. 10, the last series outing, will be eliminated from the title chase once Barnharst completes five laps at Lake Geneva.

In addition to the enduro action, featuring three fuel stops every 65 laps, a children's Halloween Costume Contest for youngsters ages 11-and-under will be held. A women's powder puff race is also planned as part of the festivities. Pre-enduro activities will begin at 12:15 p.m. with the costume contest and the powder puff race will follow.

For latest information, contact Lake Geneva Raceway 414-248-8566.

Speaking of Lake Geneva, the Raceway's rules meeting to discuss the car specifications for the 2000 campaign will be held Saturday, Oct. 23 at the Raceway. The 4-cylinder sport trucks meet at 9 a.m., street stocks at 11 a.m. and super late models at 1 p.m.

The off-season for motorsports is always full of rumors with this year being no different.

Premier Racing Productions, Inc. of Antioch, promoters of motorsports events at Wilmot Speedway on the Kenosha County Fairgrounds, wishes to set the record straight.

Promoter Andy Calin is moving ahead with plans for the 2000 motorsports season.

Wilmot High School Board of Education is exploring necessary expansion. Included in the possibilities is the option for the school board to purchase the existing fairgrounds to the north owned by the Kenosha County Fair Cooperative Association. A meeting was held between the two parties with no resolution.

Calin has held meetings with the fair board, the school board and is on the advisory board for the school district. Even if such a sale would take place, and the high school would eventually expand onto the fairgrounds and use some of the land for athletic facilities, the race track is expected to remain.

In no way is the track nor Premier Racing Productions planning to not open in May, 2000 with another season of motorsports action on the one-third mile clay oval facility.

Calin reminds fans, competitors, crew members, sponsors, and anyone interested, may look up Wilmot Speedway's web site, www.wilmotspeedway.com for updates on the upcoming 2000 season.

SPORTS DIGEST

Organized bicycle rides are being offered. Come join fellow riders for a few hours of riding and learning. Mike Kerrigan of Mike's Bikes of Gurnee, and Pete Murphy, former managing editor of Bike Magazine, will host evening and weekend rides on local trails and sport parks.

Rides will be hosted in the evenings before sundown or daily on the weekends and will consist of light to moderate speeds and locations. Participants will have a chance to ask questions from the owners and operators of Mike's Bikes (Gurnee) and offer their own experiences to others.

Most rides will take place on county paths and trailways. Complimentary post-ride liquids and foods will be provided, however, riders are encouraged to bring their own beverage for the duration of the ride.

These rides provide a great way to enjoy the fall season and get fit for the winter months coming. Riding along riverways and wooded trailways offers beautiful scenery while challenging your fitness level along with fellow cyclists.

Lake Villa Timberwolves Pee Wees now 6-0

The Lake Villa Timberwolves Sunday PeeWee team has found success thus far in the season, posting wins in its first five games.

The latest victory was a 12-6 decision over Waukegan last Sunday.

Running back Sean Hertz raced for the two Lake Villa touchdowns to lead the offense. Matt Limbert's interception anchored another strong performance for the Wolves defense, which has allowed only six points through its first five games.

In the season-opener, it was the Lake Villa defense that rose to the occasion in a 25-0 shutout win over Warren Blue. Credit goes to the entire defensive team, which applied enormous pressure to Warren's quarterback, forced fumbles, and held Warren to one first down.

Furthermore, Joe Ramos' hard hit forced the Warren QB into throwing an interception, which Billy Battistone returned for a touchdown.

The offense was in high gear as well, racking up three touchdowns, including a TD pass from Matt Limbert to Brian Schmidt. Nick Waldo also added a 15-yard run for a score and Battistone rumbled in from two yards out, a play that was set up by a 65-yard run by Ted Baramis.

Defense was the story in the Wolves second game, shutting out The #2 McHenry Hornets, 7-0. With five minutes remaining, Sean Hertz scored from 25-yards out. Matt Limbert's pass to Brian Schmidt for the extra point was good.

Then with less than a minute remaining, Nick Waldo's interception sealed the victory.

Tornadoes champions at Racine Lighthouse Classic

The Lindenhurst Tornadoes Boys U-9 soccer team took first place in its division at the Racine Lighthouse Classic Soccer Tournament in Racine, Wis. the weekend of Oct. 8-9.

The Tornadoes won all three of its games at the tournament, outscoring its opponents 18-2. Based on the tournament's scoring system, the three victories added up to 28 points, the most of any 9-and-under boy's team in either division. The Tornadoes defeated teams from Janesville, Wis., 6-1 and Racine, Wis., 9-0 prior to meeting the Kenosha Earls in the title game. Kenosha was undefeated and unscored upon prior to facing Lindenhurst.

The Tornadoes controlled the majority of play against Kenosha, breaking out to a 3-1 halftime lead behind goals by Ryan Lulofs, Chris Staton, and Andy Donovan. Battling a strong wind in the second half, the Tornadoes played solid defense, highlighted by stellar goalkeeping from Drew Jones as the Tornadoes claimed a 3-1 victory. The Tornadoes have been playing together as a team for only 2 1/2 months.

Team scoring over the three-game tournament was balanced, with nine different players putting the ball in the back of the net: Eric Holst (4 goals), Andy Donovan (3), Ian Tune (2), Drew Jones (2), Ryan Lulofs (2), Jarret Jespersen (2), Chris Staton, Matt Holmes and Joshua Larson. Ryan Carlson, Aaron Oliver, and Matt Seymour also turned in excellent performances at the tournament.

"It was a great experience for us," said Coach Neal Lulofs. "Especially considering that we're just beginning our journey together as a soccer team. We're getting better with each game we play, and we're having lots of fun along the way."

Coach Drew Jespersen added: "We've got a great group of boys. It's exciting to see them learn the game and begin to form into a true team."

The Tornadoes consist of select players from the Lindenhurst Youth Soccer League, boys third grade division. They are currently tied for second place in the Northern Illinois Soccer League's Blue-North Division, fall season.

Girls tennis

Antioch's Kirsten Jensen, a junior, and Jenny Rodgers, a senior, started a trek which would take them to the doubles title with a 6-3, 6-1 win over Johnsbury's Nicole VCendgena and Dawn Bikelonis 6-3, 6-1.

"Jenny is a senior and this is her goal - to play for state. They are 13-12 together. They are ahead of the learning curve. Both player cover the court well. They hit just enough winners.

The pressure comes in the first round when everyone is tight," Antioch coach Bryan Plinske said.

He was pleased with the team points notched on day one.

Mandy Hughes, Antioch No. 1 singles player, concluded her career with a loss. She was third in the conference race, though. "She played with a lot of heart and stuck to it," Plinske said.

Girls golf

Senior Sara Groh competed in her second consecutive girls state golf tournament last weekend in Normal, IL. Groh, who finished 13th a year ago, fired rounds of 94-85 in finishing tied for 55th in the field of 129 players.

Volleyball

The varsity girls volleyball team concluded its regular season last week and will open the post-season next Tuesday. The eighth-seeded Sequoits will host Deerfield at 7:30 p.m. in the first-round of the Mundelein Regional.

Antioch Lightweights put hurtin' on Lake Zurich

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The Antioch Viking Lightweight Youth Football team got primed for the playoffs with a 44-6 pounding over Lake Zurich last weekend.

The Vikings, who finished the regular season second in the division at 6-1, move on to the playoffs, which start this Sunday. They will host the Barrington Junior Broncos on the high school field beginning at 12:30. The Super Bowl will be held Nov. 14 in Buffalo Grove.

Against Lake Zurich, Antioch racked up 413 yards in total offense, while the defense limited the Flames to only four first downs and 32 yards of total offense.

On the third play of the game, running back Jeff Kibonge scored the first of his two touchdowns, a 32-yard pass from quarterback Tony Weyenberg. Kibonge would add a 38-yard scamper for a score in the second quarter as Antioch was well in control. Kibonge finished with 86 yards rushing on five carries.

Weyenberg accounted for the Vikings second score, a one-yard quarterback sneak, capping a five-play drive late in the first quarter.

Torrey Bell then raced in from 16 yards and Jeff Canella returned an interception 35 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter, followed by halfback Brandon Yates' 26-yard run up the middle for Antioch's final score.

"We played very aggressively," said head coach Denny Porter. "Our blitz and attacking on the defensive played a big part in holding them to limited yards."

Porter also had high praise for cornerback Taylor Hosick and the front defensive line, led by Rod Tarpoley, Sean Campbell, Jim Abear, Mike Miller, and Justin Carey.

Twilight time at Thunderhawk

It's twilight time at Thunderhawk. Sunset is a sure bet for visiting the Lake County Forest Preserves' new highly acclaimed Thunderhawk Golf Club, an 18-hole public championship course near Beach Park and Zion, designed by legendary golf course architect Robert Trent Jones Jr.

To celebrate a successful inaugural season and to introduce more area golfers to Thunderhawk, a sunset rate for public play after 5 p.m. is being offered on weekdays and weekends. The sunset rate is designed to encourage additional play after 5 p.m., a time when play is generally slower and daylight hours limit the ability to play a complete 18-hole round of golf.

On Mondays through Thursdays after 5 p.m. on weekends (Friday to Sunday) are $35 for Lake County residents and $55 for non-residents.

To take advantage of the sunset rates or for more information about Thunderhawk Golf Club, call 872-HAWK (4295).

Lake County Health Department sponsors World AIDS Day contest

Lake County students, from kindergarten through 12th grade, have an opportunity to express their creativity and help build awareness of HIV and AIDS. The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center and the Pediatric AIDS Foundation of Chicago are sponsoring the Fifth Annual World AIDS Day Poster Contest for elementary, middle and high school students.

Participants can create a poster no larger than 22 by 33 inches. The poster should signify the importance of World AIDS Day on Dec. 1. Countries worldwide are observing this day to draw attention to the AIDS epidemic.

An overall grand prize and first and second prizes will be awarded in four categories: kindergarten through second grade; third through fifth grade; sixth through eighth grade; and ninth through 12th grade. Lake County merchants are donating the contest prizes.

The contest, which is made possible with the generous support of the Pediatric AIDS Foundation of Chicago, works to heighten young people's awareness of HIV and AIDS, stress prevention of the disease and build compassion for those living with HIV/AIDS. An award ceremony, announcing the contest winners, will take place Tuesday, Nov. 30, in the auditorium of the College of Lake County's Grayslake campus at 7 p.m. All participants will be invited to the event.

Any student interested in submitting an entry should contact the LCHD/CHC at 360-6891 to obtain rules and an entry form. Submissions without an entry form will not be considered. All entries must be at the Lake County Health Department, 2400 Belvidere Road, Room 132, Waukegan, IL, 60085, by Nov. 12 at 3 p.m. For more information, contact Amy Reichenbach at 360-6891.

CLC NOTES

CLC Lakeshore Child-care center

The College of Lake County's child-care center at the Lakeshore Campus in Waukegan has earned accreditation from the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). The accreditation is valid through 2002.

In granting the accreditation, NAEYC conducted an intensive evaluation process that included an on-site study of the child-care center's program and a final review by a panel of commissioners who are experts in early childhood education.

In a letter of acknowledgment, Stephanie Glowacki, director of accreditation programs, congratulated CLC and the child-care center staff for their commitment to providing a high quality, professional early childhood program.

According to Sandy Groeninger, director of the college's child-care centers, the accreditation demonstrates that the child-care program at the Lakeshore Campus meets national standards of quality and a variety of criteria related to providing a developmentally appropriate program for young children.

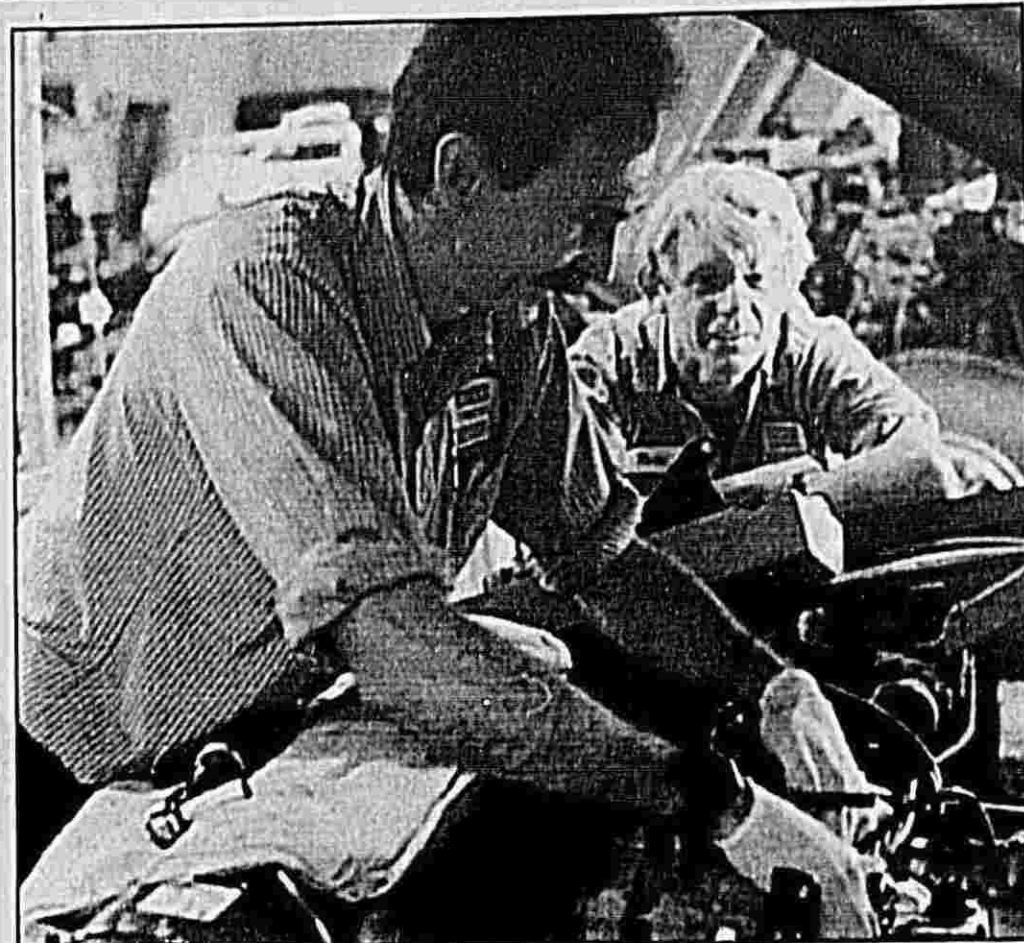

The Lakeshore Campus child-care center opened in January 1996. It accepts children aged 2 1/2 to 12, with services available both days and evenings for currently enrolled students and staff and parents who have been referred by the YWCA/Department of Human Services. The center is managed by six staff members, supervised by Laura Eveland Swanson, lead child-care class facilitator.

The center is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Fridays. For more information about services and programs, call 543-2190.

Free Choral concert

The Choir of Lake County and the CLC Singers, under the direction of Adair Spencer, will present a concert at 4 p.m. Oct. 31 in the Mainstage Theatre at the College of Lake County's Grayslake Campus. Admission is free and open to the public. For information, call 543-2300.

There's no need to travel outside Lake County for a good scare this Halloween

Haunted happenings

By JULIE WALSWORTH
Staff Reporter

One may think that they must travel hours out of Lake County to visit truly frightening haunted houses. A trip through Lake County's haunted habitats reveals that this is not the case. Here's a sample:

Dutch Gardens, located on Route 45 and Sand Lake Road in Lake Villa Township offers day and evening activities for children and adults of all ages.

Employees of Dutch Gardens have set up a Mystery Maze, Children's Corn Walk and Haunted Warehouse.

The children's cornwalk is appropriate for younger children accompanied by an adult to hang on to—although some adults may also need someone's hand to squeeze. Actually, the cornwalk is haunted by costumed children and teenagers that are hired by Margie Chostner, the owner of Dutch Gardens. According to Josh Park, a 13-year-old halloween helper, most of the employees of the haunted house are family or friends of family. Some of the helpers are paid for their scary work, while some of the younger helpers are involved just for fun like Justin Popp, 10.

The walk is dark and its hard to see, but not to worry, a freakish creature will gladly point participants in the right direction without saying a word, much like the Ghost of Christmas Future.

The haunted warehouse will intrigue the senses with haunting music and decor, but participants should not let the realistic gore allow them to let their guard down. Participants should beware of the character with the "Scream" mask and the deadly guillotine.

However, even when knowing what's in store there is no way to prepare for the engulfing terror.

While walking through the mystery maze, one may find the experience too quiet for comfort and be relieved when a monster finally shows him or herself by jumping out from some hidden lurking corner.

Each participant will be required to enter a green house with several push-open doors—never knowing what to expect behind each door.

While walking through the mystery maze, it is not always best to focus on what's ahead but instead what may be following from behind.

The mystery maze, children's corn walk and haunted warehouse are open Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings from 7 to 11 p.m.

Give me my Macintosh or give me ... dinner?

I'm feeling very emotional today. I received an e-mail from our computer support person at work informing several other employees and me that by the end of the month, we will be forced to surrender our beloved Power Macintoshes.

"We" consists of a small, determined group of Power Macintosh users that had managed to hang on valiantly for the last year, as we watched Windows-powered computers take over the desktops around us one by one. Sometimes it was tough to remain strong. Sometimes we shivered in fear as we heard the sounds of former Macintosh users trying to get their Windows machines to work as reliably as their Macs: "Oh, #%#@#, not again!!! Hello? Help Desk?"

Other times, we tried to keep up morale by huddling together at the coffee machine and quietly singing our fight song:

*From our hallowed corporate headquarters
To the bankbook of Bill Gates
Every desktop must now have PCs
Run by Windows 98*

*They will never get my Macintosh
I'll upgrade till its' last moan
Cuz I'd rather have an old G3
Than become a PC clone.*

And though we never kidded ourselves into thinking we'd win the war, we did hope for long-range détente. So when I got the e-mail, I was shocked. My first thought was to strap myself to my Macintosh and hang a sign on my office door that says, "Give me my Macintosh or give me two weeks notice!"

My second thought was, "Let's see...how much money do I have in my savings account to get by on while I'm unemployed..."

My third thought was, "Never mind. Take my Mac. Do those Windows computers come in a nice teal color?"

It is, after all, a machine. A thing. And I still have my iMac at home for consolation. So why, then, do I feel so bummed?

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Especially considering there was a time when I wanted to use a computer about as much as I wanted to insert toothpicks under my fingernails. I remember vividly when, at a former job, they first announced that they were going to computerize the office, and we would all have to learn to use a desktop computer. I almost got excited when they said they were going to provide training for us, until I learned that training consisted of "an offer we couldn't refuse: stay late after work without pay, and receive a couple of 'free' computing lessons from a fellow employee who had apparently learned her teaching style from the Gestapo."

"THIS is the computer. THIS is the floppy drive. You VILL use the computer and you VILL like it. I myself LOVE it. UNDERSTAND? Good! Class dismissed."

After my training with Wilhelmina the Gestapo Geek, I felt ready for anything. Anything but using that stupid computer. Asking someone like me to use that contraption, someone whose previous experience with electronics consisted of turning on the TV, was like asking me to pilot the next space shuttle to Mars.

And what would be the point of going to Mars? The Martians had already landed...and they were on my desk in that little beige box. And they were hungry.

Their favorite food consisted of multiple-page documents. I would spend hours typing away on the keyboard, then another hour trying to figure out how to name the darn thing in eight letters or less, how to save it and, finally, after saving it, I would print it. At least I thought I was printing it. The trouble is, it never came out of the printer. So I'd go back on the computer and try to find my document which, in that black hole of a DOS computer, was like trying to get my hands on a Furby before last Christmas. Next thing you know, I'd have to summon Wilhelmina to help me, meaning I'd wave at her, point to the computer and whisper, "They're baaaaaack."

Wilhelmina would goosetstep right over, muttering "Dumkopf!" under her breath, and start tapping away at the keyboard. She sometimes located a few planes that had disappeared in the Bermuda Triangle, but rarely ever found my document.

Didn't matter—she couldn't make it print either.

So my introduction to the world of computers was pretty much a bust. At least until I was hired at my current job. To my surprise, the computer on my desk was a Macintosh. When they turned it on that first day, I was amazed to hear the voice of James Brown singing "Whoa! I FEEL GOOD!" as the computer started up, followed by that little smiley face logo that means all is well with your Macintosh computer.

And the screen wasn't black. It was filled with color and folders and trashcans and things that actually made sense to me. And though it did all the work that a computer should do, it had something the DOS-powered machines didn't have—a sense of humor.

Needless to say, it's been "love" ever since. Which is why I always thought that when it came to my Mac, I'd never give it up without a fight.

Of course, I forgot one important detail...I like to eat.

Daniels makes traveling a fun experience

It's been 28 years since Dottie Daniels embarked on a business trip that would theoretically and often physically, take her all over the world helping people enjoy traveling at its best when she and her husband Walter purchased Antioch Travel in 1972.

They operated Antioch Travel until 1991 servicing customers by planning their vacations, trips and/or excursions so that seeing new vistas and experiencing new customs could be done in the most comfortable way at the lowest prices possible.

Just two years after Antioch Travel got off the ground, in 1974, the Daniels added a second travel agency, Advanced Travel in Zion, to their venture.

For the next 24 years, until 1996, they and their planning experts were busy helping their clients see new and familiar places by land, sea or air, making sure that being away from home was an experience one would want to repeat again and again.

After her husband's death and a short absence from the business, Dottie recently returned to the world that makes many people's dreams come true when she, with the help of her travel consultants Robin Kasuboski and Elaine Dolmar, opened Fairway Travel located in the Hawthorn Suites, at the Midlane Golf Resort, 4555 W. Yorkhouse Rd. in Wadsworth.

The agency charges no fees for their services, working to gain new customers at the new location, but also striving to keep the long list of old satisfied clients growing by leaps and bounds.

HAUNTED: County offers several venues for frightful fun tional $3 after the price of park admission.

The attraction is very popular so one can anticipate waiting in line for at least an hour. The wait should not be discouraging; it's half the fun. A funky dance group, loud techno music, smoke and laser lights are all part of the experience.

The line is set up under the enclosure of a tent that surrounds a small stage. "Time flies when you're having fun," so does participants' wait to enter the Brutal Planet.

A bridge surrounding a rotating tunnel of blinking white and purple lights is the first obstacle participants must pass before the real terror begins. To cross the bridge, participants must "hang on" to the railing. It appears as though if you do not hang, you'll fall to the left.

Aliens, psycho dolls, skeletons, flesh eating monsters and half-eaten corpses must be passed before exiting the house and every time you think the worst is over, it's yet to come. Participants should be prepared to scream a lot and exit the house with hoarse voices.

Alice Cooper's Brutal Planet is open while the park is open on Oct. 22 and 29 from 5 to 11 p.m., Oct. 23 and 30 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Oct. 24 and 31 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Brutal Planet and the live entertainment is not suitable for children under the age of twelve.

The Tenth Annual Dungeon of Doom Haunted House is currently operating at the Lake County Fairgrounds for its second year. According to sources at the house, the Mancow Show and Q101 rated Dungeon of Doom No. 1.

According to Jene Luptak, Dungeon of Doom's operating manager, his crew begins construction and preparation during the second week of August.

Luptak hires 40 employees every year. On a busy day 20 people are on scaring duty alone, according to Luptak.

This house is well-known and a wait can be anticipated—especially as Halloween draws closer. Participants wait indoors while watching popular horror flicks on an overhead screen.

At Dutch Gardens haunted house, an array of masked ghouls try their best to make Corn Walk, the Haunted Warehouse and the Tunnel of Terror, fun and scary for kids of all ages.—Photo by Kirsten Hough

Participants are brought into the house in an even numbered group of about six or eight people. The group is ordered to gather in a close corner and witness a "live execution." From there, participants will be released into the remainder of the house two at a time.

The Dungeon of Doom is different from most haunted houses because of its use of texture and touch as one of the most effective scaring techniques. You walk through pitch-black hallways, not knowing what you are stepping on or what is brushing along your sides.

Monsters don't just jump out and go back to a hiding spot. They chase participants and will grab a hold of the slower ones who can't run fast enough.

There are also traps set for participants. The direction that the arrow points towards sometimes points toward an exit, but sometimes to a dead end, making you vulnerable to any attack.

The Dungeon of Doom is open every day until Oct. 31 at 6 p.m. Participants must be 12-years-old and should enter the fairgrounds from the Route 120 entrance.

Mariann Mayberry and Christopher Donahue in a scene from Homer's 'The Odyssey' directed by Mary Zimmerman at Chicago's Goodman Theater.

Wondrous 'Odyssey' translates well

"The Odyssey," Homer's larger-than-life classic, has been around for nearly 3,000 years, passed along from one generation to the next.

Now director Mary Zimmerman, well-known for her creative insight, has taken the heroic tale and adapted it to the stage in a truly scintillating production at Chicago's Goodman Theater. The nearly 3-1/2-hour play captures all the key elements of this literary classic that's old and familiar yet fresh and buoyant at the same time.

At every turn striking imagery and some campy humor, too, leaps from the stage as the 21-member cast, many playing multiple roles, enthusiastically recreates the trials and tribulations of the decade-long homeward journey of the great military warrior Odysseus after a 10-year battle with the Trojans. Scenery is spare, but expert use of lighting, costuming, original music and props (including some really campy silhouettes involving the one-eyed Cyclops) easily transports the audience and puts its imagination into overdrive.

Against the odds, Odysseus, played with single-minded nobility by Christopher Donahue, faces many tests put to him by the Greek gods as he travels back to his ever-constant spouse, Penelope (Felicity Jones). Fortunately, he finds encouragement and help from the goddess Athena (Mariann Mayberry in a stunning performance). Doug Hara rises to the occasion as Telemachus, the son who grew up without the presence of a father figure.

Especially delightful is the witty way Zimmerman handles the scene in which Odysseus, tied to the mast of his ship, must evade the enticing, modern-day lures of the Sirens. Hermes (played by Kyle Hall) is -literally- a cleverly appointed 'winged' messenger.

A defining moment comes when Odysseus is finally back in Ithaca and must rid his house of the unwanted freeloaders who have pressed themselves relentlessly on Penelope. Disguised as a beggar, his eyes light up in delight when it's announced that Penelope will accept the suitor who can string Odysseus' bow and fire an arrow through a row of axe heads - a feat no imposter can accomplish.

See 'The Odyssey' through Oct. 31. This is a theatrical event. For tickets information please call 312-443-3800—By Tom Witom

HOROSCOPE

ARIES - March 21/April 20

While you want to take charge of a family matter early in the week, Aries, you shouldn't. You're not the best-qualified person to handle this situation. Let someone else take control, and try to learn a thing or two in the process. Leo plays an important role on Monday.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

A close friend interrupts a quiet evening at home this week, Taurus. Don't get upset, because he or she has something important to tell you. Help him or her deal with the situation, and try to be supportive. Your efforts will be appreciated. A friend of a friend asks a favor of you. While you want to help, don't. It only will mean problems for you.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

When it comes to a financial decision, don't let a loved one force you to do something that you don't agree with. You have to do what is best for you — and only you can make that decision. A good friend asks your opinion about the person he or she has been seeing. Be honest.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Don't let your conscience get the best of you when you tell a little white lie to an acquaintance. While you should tell the truth, you don't. However, no one is hurt by what you say. So, don't beat yourself up about it. Let it go. An old friend calls you out of the blue late in the week. Spend time catching up with him or her.

LEO - July 23/August 23

An acquaintance accidentally tells you something that he or she shouldn't early in the week, Leo. While you are intrigued, don't ask for more details. Just let the matter drop. A loved one offers you romantic advice. Listen to what he or she has to say. Scorpio plays a key role.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

There's a lot on your plate this week, Virgo. So, stay focused, and keep things organized. This is the only way that you'll get things done. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify your relationship. Say yes, because you know that this is what you want, too.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

While you want to help close friends settle an argument, don't get involved, Libra. This is something that they need to work out on their own. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her — even though you aren't sure what you should do.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

You have an important meeting early in the week, Scorpio. Don't be late for it. If you are, you'll miss out on a potentially lucrative opportunity. That special someone asks you an important question. Be honest when answering. Aquarius plays an important role on Friday.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't back down when an acquaintance challenges a decision that you make on Wednesday. Stand your ground, because you know that you made the best possible choice. Those close to you will support your decision. A loved one needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

While you want to advance your career, Capricorn, don't do it at the expense of a co-worker. Just work diligently, and the higher-ups are sure to notice you. A close friend has good news and wants to celebrate. Take him or her out on the town. Virgo plays a key role.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't get upset with a loved one just because he or she makes a choice that you don't agree with. This person is doing what he or she thinks is best. Try to be supportive. A close friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Be honest with him or her.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

You have a lot to do this week, Pisces, and several people are watching to see how you handle everything. Stay calm, and keep things organized. That's how you'll accomplish everything. People will be impressed with your efforts. That special someone has a question for you. Answer it honestly.

Fight Club throws a raw punch

Early hype about the new Brad Pitt, Edward Norton film Fight Club would have you believe it's an insider's guide to underground clubs where men beat each other to a bloody pulp and beg for more.

While that's certainly true, Fight Club offers up much more than testosterone and black eyes.

It examines the stale life of a nameless character, played by Edward Norton, who chucks his secure job as a automobile recall analyst, his yuppie Swedish furniture and his sanity, for a taste of anarchy and the sweet opportunity to give society the finger.

The narrator (Norton) is a corporate worker bee, drifting through monotonous days of in-boxes, copy machines and gourmet coffee breaks half-awake and half-asleep due to a wicked case of insomnia.

At night, he tries to ease the pain of not sleeping and not being part of anything meaningful, by attending support groups for people who are dying.

Although unafflicted by disease himself, he finds the emotional outpouring of self-pity and grief liberating, and becomes addicted because a good cry with strangers is the cure for his sleeplessness.

Testicular cancer meetings are a pretty good solution until another "faker" threatens his game.

Helena Bonham Carter plays Marla Singer, a strangely alluring mental case waiting to hit bottom, hoping for her own untimely death or more likely, attention.

She tells Norton's character she goes to the meetings because "it's cheaper than a movie, and the coffee is free," but what she really wants is an answer to her twisted cry

Adding to the narrator's already disillusioned state of mind is Tyler Durden (Brad Pitt), whom he meets on a airplane during a routine business trip, and later moves in with after all his worldly possessions are burned up in an apartment fire.

Tyler is a raw, sarcastic wake-up call who's answer to society's straight jacket is pure revolution.

"You are not your job. You are not how much you have in the bank. You are not the contents of your wallet. You are not your khakis," preaches Tyler.

The two begin an underground fight club where pulverizing other men and creating mayhem releases the rage created by thankless jobs, media ideals of beauty and the pressure to live the American dream while not losing your soul in the process.

Much like The Game, Fight Club veers off the road taking the audience for a wild, unexpected ride. Kind of like getting on a ferris wheel. It's relatively safe, and you think you know how it works, but then it starts moving backward. The speed increases at an alarming rate, and you can no longer make out your grandpa waving from below.

Visually, Fight Club is slick as an MTV production. Caustic images flash one after another before you can even begin to analyze them.

Biting wit brings out truths that everyone knows but are afraid to say aloud for fear of expulsion from society. In fact, the dark humor is so dead-on and over the top, it can slice your face open just as good as brass knuckles when swung at full force.

Fight Club throws a raw punch that leaves a bittersweet scar. I give it four and a half popcorn boxes out of five.

THEATRE REVIEW Calling Jeffrey Sweet's 'Bluff'

"Bluff," Jeffrey Sweet's new, cleverly written and smartly performed play, captures the dark side of relationships.

The comedy features Jon Cryer and Sarah Trigger as a young couple who meet in New York City, fall in love and move in together. The "happily-ever-after" part, however, is disrupted when her stepfather comes to town for a dental convention and stops for a visit. Their confrontation raises an age-old question: Can you out run your family history?

Cryer and Trigger, as Neal and Emily, seem to develop a good rapport. But Tim Grimm, as the over-the-top stepfather, raises moral issues that elevate this play beyond situation comedy.

"Bluff" picks at the scars left behind by an alcoholic parent and scrutinizes the basic core of marital fidelity.

Sandy Shinner directs this production at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater, 2257 N. Lincoln Ave., through Oct. 24. Call (773) 871-3000 for tickets.—By Tom Witom

Tips for carving the pumpkin of the century

With fall upon us, it is time to select and carve that prized pumpkin. Ron Meyn, five-time consecutive champion of the American Culinary Association's pumpkin carving contest and owner of Millennium Ice Sculpting in Milwaukee, offers the following tips for selecting and creating an award-winning pumpkin:

- Shop early for the best selection.
- Choose a pumpkin with a smooth texture and uniform color.
- To find a pumpkin that will be easy to carve, select a lighter-colored pumpkin over a dark one and test it by poking a fingernail into the flesh. If you can't poke through, it will be difficult to carve.

- When scraping out the inside for pumpkin seeds, use a sharp object, like a butter curler.
- Choose a simple design. Designs can come from coloring books, clip art, or can even be downloaded off the web.
- For the best results, tape the design to the pumpkin, then wrap it with saran wrap. Make sure the saran wrap is tight. If you need help getting it tight, use a hair dryer on a low setting.
- Cut carefully. Adults should supervise young children.

Halloween safety tips make holiday better

With Halloween approaching, Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan has issued safety tips to promote a safe Halloween for children in communities throughout Northern Illinois.

According to Sheahan, parents should start out by checking their children's costumes. Face make-up is preferable to masks, but if a mask is necessary, be sure it has enlarged holes for breathing and vision. Check the length of the costume's material to prevent tripping, and discourage your children from carrying sharp or pointed objects as part of their costumes.

Young children should always be accompanied by an adult and older children should trick-or-treat in groups and should make their parents aware of the route they intend to follow. It is a good idea to limit your children's trick-or-treat activities to friends or neighbors you know well.

Trick-or-treating should take place during daytime hours. If children go out at dusk or after dark, make sure they carry a flashlight or have reflective material on their costumes.

Finally, when trick-or-treating is completed, parents should thoroughly inspect all candy before children are allowed to eat it. Candy that appears to have been unwrapped or tampered with in any way should be discarded. Apples and other fruit should be sliced several times before eating.

'KidStuff' offers family Halloween entertainment at Gorton

The "KidStuff" performing arts series at Gorton Community Center, 400 East Illinois Rd. in Lake Forest, continues with "Halloween Hijinx" on Saturday, Oct. 30 from 10:30-11:15 a.m. Tickets are $5.

The performance is geared to children in kindergarten through third grade and their parents, and features Dave Herzog's Marionettes. Join mad scientist Boris von Puppen-spiel, Frankie Monster, Count Dracula von Tippietoes, Rip Reaper and the Bone Brigade, Jack O'Lantern, Scare E. Crow, and a whole gallery of ghastly ghouls as they present kooky-not-spooky, non-threatening Halloween celebration. Dave Herzog's Marionettes is a full-time, professional puppet company, specializing in the Art of Marionette. Their age-appropriate productions have charmed children and adults through the Midwest since 1974.

Interested participants should register and purchase tickets in advance. For further information, or to receive a program brochure, contact or stop by the Gorton office at 234-6060 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., weekdays.

Trek through our Tour of Terror

The terrifying Tour of Terror will begin for three horrifying nights on Saturday, Oct. 23. Doors creek open at 6 p.m. at Meadowhill Park for the Northbrook Park District's Annual Haunted House, where slimy creatures and ghoulish ghosts will lurk behind every twist and turn. We promise you the scare of a lifetime! Those brave souls who complete the tour will receive a bag of Halloween goodies to celebrate.

The Haunted House Tour of Terror continues over Halloween weekend, on Friday and Saturday nights, Oct. 29 & 30, running from 6 to 9 p.m. Tickets cost $3 at all Park District registration offices, and $4 at the door. Meadowhill Park is located at 1500 Maple Ave. in Northbrook. The Haunted House is a cooperative effort between the Northbrook Park District and the Northbrook YMCA. For more information, please call 291-2980.

YMCA preparing safe, fun Halloween for kids and families

Halloween this year might be spooky. It might be spooky, silly fun. But one thing it will be for sure. It will be a safe and imaginative experience for little goblins and their families alike. If they enjoy Halloween at the Lake County Family YMCA, one of more than 700 YMCA's hosting Halloween events, coast-to-coast.

Once again, the Lake County Family YMCA is decorating its facilities for Halloween. Halloween at the YMCA will be celebrated on Saturday, Oct. 30, from 1 to 4 p.m. The YMCA is a safe place to celebrate when pumpkins glow and kids masquerade.

"And it's not just for kids but a cool destination for teens and families where Halloween can be creative and social experience for all," said Jeremy Hagstrom, youth and sports director. "Families want to know that their children are being looked after and, at the same time, engaged in enjoyable, worthwhile activities on Halloween night—and other nights. They know that the Lake County Family YMCA is there to do just that—for kids and grown-ups alike!"

To see what all the fun is about, call the Lake County Family YMCA at 360-YMCA, or consult a list of participating YMCA's at www.ymca.net

Barn of Barrington Halloween dance

A Halloween Dance, sponsored by New Beginnings and Holy Family Phoenix Ministry, will be held Saturday, Oct. 30, at the Barn of Barrington, 1415 S. Barrington Rd., a half mile north of Dundee Rd., from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Admission is $5. For information, call 891-5546.

'Haunted Castle' to highlight Halloween Festivities

Medieval Times Dinner & Tournament, North American's longest-running dinner-show, proudly announces the arrival of its "Haunted Castle," Oct. 21-31.

For two weekends, the Schaumburg Castle will be transformed into a cobwebbed fortress of wicked beings and special effects in the tradition of Halloween. As guests arrive at the 85,000 square-foot entertainment facility, they will be greeted by 40-foot cascading cobwebs totally engulfing the castle façade. Those who dare to cross the drawbridge—fortified by a gambit of coffins—will be treated to an evening of feasting and fun as the guests of King Alphonso and Queen Inez. And, guests are invited to visit the dreaded Dungeon—a Museum of Torture and Ridicule.

On Halloween weekend, kids in attendance will enjoy two special treats. On Oct. 28 through Oct. 31, kids 12 and under will receive free Halloween goodies while supplies last. On Halloween, a costume contest will be held.

Medieval Times is located at the intersection of Interstate 90 and Roselle Rd. Reservations are required for all shows, and can be made by calling 1-888-WB-JOUST.

'Scare in the Air' festival held

The Hancock Observatory will become the top spot for spooky Halloween entertainment on the last four weekends of October, as "Scare in the Air," a festival of Halloween activities for the family, materializes at the observatory. The spirits of the sky will invade the 94th floor observatory. Dare to ask a gypsy tarot card reader to disclose what's in store for the future, sit for a portrait sketched by a "Cool Ghoul" caricaturist and become chilled to the bone with excitement as a Dracula magician performs close-up magic and illusions for both young and old.

"Scare in the Air" spooks at the observatory will be held from noon to 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday

Oct. 23, 24, 30 and 31.

Throughout the month of October, visitors can also enter to win two round-trip United Airlines tickets. Fly to Boston to investigate the Salem Massachusetts Witches Museum; Arizona to explore the Goldfield ghost town; New Orleans to visit St. Louis Cemetery No. 1, or a favorite haunt anywhere in the continental United States.

The Hancock Center is located at 875 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago. Admission is $8.50 for adults, $6 for seniors and children 5-12, and free for children 4 and under. For information call 1-888-875-VIEW (8439) or visit The Hancock Observatory Web Site at www.hancock-observatory.com.

Podiatric physicians to participate in foot care aware program by providing free foot screenings to people with diabetes

During the month of November, people with diabetes are encouraged to call 1-888-DIABETES to receive a referral to a podiatric physician providing free foot screenings as part of the Foot Care Aware program. The program is being conducted in recognition of American Diabetes Month.

Podiatric physicians participating in the program, sponsored by the American Diabetes Association, the Illinois Podiatric Medical Association and the Illinois Department of Human Services, will provide free foot screenings to people with diabetes during November. The goal of the program is to help diagnose nerve damage and to reduce the risk of lower extremity amputations among the diabetic population.

About 60 to 70 percent of people with diabetes have mild to severe forms of diabetic nerve damage. Each year, more than 54,000 individuals, including 2,400 Illinois residents, lose their foot or leg due to diabetes. Costing as much as $40,000 each, more than half of these amputations could have been prevented with proper foot care.

Many amputations are the result of nerve damage, a serious problem for many individuals with diabetes. Because nerve damage often leads to loss of sensation in the feet, people with diabetes often feel no pain when they injure a foot or toe. As a result, a minor injury can become infected and, without proper treatment, can lead to amputation.

"We want to improve the lives of people affected by diabetes and this campaign is an excellent way to do that by providing free foot screenings to detect individuals with diabetes who are at risk for developing foot complications," said Lynne Wentz, R.N., M.H.S., president of Health Care and Education for the Northern Illinois Area of the American Diabetes Association.

In addition to having a free foot screening, people with diabetes can reduce their risk of amputation by following a few simple guidelines:

- Check your bare feet every day for cuts, bruises, blisters, redness and swelling. Use a mirror if you cannot see the bottom of your feet.

- Have your doctor check your bare feet at every visit.

- Wash your feet in warm, not hot, water every day. Do not soak your feet. Remember to dry between your toes.

- Never walk barefoot.

- Cut toenails straight across. Use an emery board to smooth sharp edges that could cut the next toe.

The American Diabetes Association, the Illinois Podiatric Medical Association and the Illinois Department of Human Services encourage people with diabetes to take advantage of the free foot screenings. Individuals interested in a screening must make an appointment in advance. For a referral to a podiatric physician participating in the Foot Care Aware program, call 1-888-DIABETES.

Provena Health prepared for year 2000

Three years, more than 25,000 staff hours and several million dollars later, the technology experts at Provena Health say they expect that Saturday, Jan. 1, 2000, will be "business as usual" at the system's seven hospitals, 15 long-term care and residential facilities, 40-plus clinics, six home health agencies and other human service activities.

Dean Marketti, Provena Health's chief information officer, expects all Year 2000 (Y2K) solutions and contingency plans will be in place and operational this fall, allowing plenty of time before Jan. 1, 2000.

"Our number-one priority throughout this process has been our patients and residents," Marketti explained. "We've been working on Y2K since the fall of 1996, and we're confident that equipment and systems related to patient care will be Y2K compliant well before the new year. We fully expect that Jan. 1 will be 'business as usual' at all Provena Health hospitals, clinics and other entities."

Marketti and other Provena Health Information Services managers began studying Y2K in 1996 as an issue related to computer software and hardware. It quickly grew to include all equipment that contains an embedded computer chip (microchip) that may read "00" as "1900" instead of "2000." This includes biomedical equipment such as ventilators, medication-infusion pumps, defibrillators and X-ray equipment; building systems such as heating and cooling equipment; and data processing equipment related to business functions, such as personal computers and software.

More than 8,600 items were reviewed. "We've inventoried more than 8,600 items related to patient and resident care," says Brian Byrnes, Y2K coordinator for Provena Health. "We tested these items or received the manufacturer's certification in those cases where the equipment couldn't be tested locally. Any item that couldn't be brought into compliance was replaced at a total cost of more than $2 million. We're waiting for replacements on a small handful of items that are due in October or early November. These items will be taken out of service in December whether or not their replacements arrive."

In anticipation of Y2K, Provena Health earlier this year negotiated the purchase of new state-of-the-art cardiac monitors and fetal monitoring systems to replace most of the existing units. The equipment will be standardized across all hospitals.

Additionally, Byrnes and his counterparts at each hospital and other facilities, have been in contact with more than 2,000 manufacturers and suppliers of equipment and utilities to ensure that they're on top of this issue.

Contingency plans that cover everything from biomedical equipment to system software to local utilities are a major part of Provena Health's overall Y2K readiness.

Each of Provena Health's hospitals, clinics and other businesses already has plans in place to address disasters like telephone or power outages. In fact, each hospital is equipped with the ability to generate its own electricity, if necessary, for a period of time. Contingency plans will ensure the continued supply of such things as power and water, and the removal of waste, if necessary.

Plans also will cover possible malfunctions of biomedical equipment; building and environmental systems such as heating, cooling and ventilation; PCs and business-related functions; and delays in delivery of supplies and pharmaceuticals.

Both Marketti and Byrnes expect Jan. 1, 2000, to be "just another day" throughout Provena Health.

"Throughout the entire process, we have given ourselves plenty of time so that we could make good, rational decisions every step of the way," Marketti says.

Provena Health hospitals, long-term care and residential facilities are located in the Illinois cities of Aurora, Bourbonnais, Danville, Elgin, Freeport, Geneva, Joliet, Kankakee, Rockford, Urbana and Waukegan as

Parents invited to hear Dr. Berry Brazelton

Renowned pediatrician and author T. Berry Brazelton, M.D., will discuss "Stresses and Supports for Today's Families," Thursday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in a program at Finch University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School, 3333 Green Bay Road, North Chicago.

The program is sponsored by the Child Care Coalition of Lake County with Finch University and Baxter Healthcare serving as co-sponsors. Registration deadline is December 1.

Dr. Brazelton is known for his lively exchanges with parents during the post-lecture question and answer session. For more than three decades he has helped families build healthy self-esteem in both parents and children. He encourages parents to trust their own judgement by observing their children and following their intuition. His 15 books include the classic "Infants and Mothers," as well as "On Becoming a Family" and "Working and Caring."

Admission to the December 9 lecture is only $10 because the event has been underwritten by the Child Care Coalition's Quality Project funded by a grant from the state of Illinois.

Reservations made until the December 1 deadline will be accepted in the order in which they are received. No registrations will be taken at the door. Reservations with a check made out to the Child Care Coalition of Lake County can be mailed to P.O. Box 1252, Highland

T. Berry Brazelton, M.D. will speak on stress and today's family. The talk will take place at the Chicago Medical School in North Chicago.

Park, IL 60035. For more information call 604-4405.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake County — made up of professionals in early childhood education, health, business and government — is bringing Dr. Brazelton to the Chicago area as part of its 10th anniversary celebration.

"This event highlights one of the Coalition's original goals — to educate parents so that they can raise their children with confidence and can recognize and seek quality child care," said Sandra Raizes, Coalition president.

Radon gas testing kits available through the Health Department

Now that fall is here, the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center recommends that residents check the radon levels of their homes or apartments.

"The best time to check for radon is during cool weather when everyone keeps their windows and doors closed," said Mahindar Sharma, environmental control engineer with the Health Department. "We encourage residents to check radon levels in their homes."

Short-term test kits are available through the Health Department for $10, which includes return postage, laboratory analysis and interpretation by Health Department staff. Test kits are also available from area hardware and building supply stores.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency considers radon gas to be a potential cause of cancer in humans. Radon is an odorless and colorless gas that is naturally found in rock and soil. It is the end product from the breakdown of uranium, a radioactive element.

Radon seeps into homes from the soil through cracks in the basement floor and foundation, crawl spaces, poorly sealed sump pumps, floor drains, porous cinder block walls and other foundation floor and wall penetrations. Although radon gas is measurable everywhere, the highest readings are normally found in basement and first-floor levels of homes and apartments.

Radon is measured in picocuries per liter of air. The Environmental Protection Agency has established four picocuries per liter of air as an "action level" at which consideration should be given to reducing indoor radon levels. The only way to determine radon levels in a home or apartment is to test in the lowest living area.

For additional information, contact Christopher Carter or Mahindar Sharma of the Health Department at 360-6747.

Screaming can be fun

Hi Dr. Singer,

My 15-year-old daughter loves to get together with her friend and watch scary movies, sleep over and then scream and laugh the rest of the night together. Sometimes, to me, it sounds like they are really terrified, but they ask to keep getting together to do this. Of course, when it is at our house, no one can really sleep well with all the screaming going on. We really don't mind that part of it that much, but are more concerned with

PARENT'S PLACE

whether this activity is OK for them. This time of year, with Halloween coming up, they become especially fond of this activity and I do not know if this is healthy or normal. Do you think this is normal?

Sleep deprived mom!

Hi Sleep Deprived,

If it isn't normal, than I was also an abnormal teenager as well! Being that they are 15, and asking to do this again and again, it is more than likely something they are enjoying more than they fear it. Some of my fondest memories are "screamfests" with my best friend Stacey. We would also watch the scariest movie we could find. Afterwards, the predictable phone call would occur to the other parents to ask, "Can I sleep over at Sherri's house?" After that, the screaming and laughter would begin... for hours! I often wondered why my parents never complained, but also knew why they were happy to let me occupy the downstairs bedroom on the OTHER side of the house!

We enjoyed this activity immensely! This is not to say that there were not times that both of us would go a little too far in scaring each other and become really scared to the point that for a few minutes it wasn't fun anymore. But, then again, there was always an easy remedy for that... turn on the light for a few minutes. If your daughter gets too scared, she will more than likely do the same thing.

Let me try to explain to you a little bit about why this type of thing is so exciting for kids and even for many adults. Ours is a society that loves scary movies. They sell very well. Even the news is a form of scare and look at how many people are drawn to it. Ask yourself how popular Roller Coasters are. They have gotten bigger, scarier and more risky looking over time and their popularity has grown along with the risk. People love a safe scare! They love to feel that adrenaline pumping for a little while, to come down safely afterwards. I believe it gives them a feeling of being in control of their fears. It's almost therapeutic in a sense. The more you face your fears in a relatively safe environment, the more in control of your fears you are and the more in control you feel.

Kids also love to laugh. I can tell you from my personal experience with Stacey, that we laughed so hard from being scared that we would almost be wheezing by the time we were done. It felt so terrific I can't even express it. Your daughter is probably drawn back to the same feeling I was.

This is probably OK for a kid who is 15. For a younger age child, however, it may not be the best thing in the world. Younger kids have more difficulty finding the dividing line between reality and fantasy. I would say that you need to make a judgement call about how young is OK. If your 9-year-old does this and ends up sleeping with you for the next four days, you know it's time to cut it off until the child is older.

Regarding the sleep deprivation of the family, that is a tough one! You see, my family never complained at the time, but I have a feeling that if they did, being the teenager I was, I probably would have been a tough one to stop laughing. Not because I was insolent or defiant, but because the draw to the laughter was so strong and so much a part of Stacey's and my relationship.

There are a couple of things I might suggest. First, you might want to think about letting your daughter move her room to a different location in the house. I ended up making the downstairs guest room my permanent room. It worked well in lots of ways and

Palatable and portable: A tasty way to enjoy nutrition on-the-go

Even in today's fast-paced world, people still recognize the need for good nutrition. In fact, awareness of the importance of the five-a-day formula has risen almost 30 percent in the past decade.

But eating five half-cup servings of fruits and vegetables every day can be challenging, especially if life has you on-the-go and your tastebuds yearn for something more exciting than a carrot stick or sprig of broccoli.

Now there's a new product on store shelves to help make getting your five-a-day a lot more convenient and flavorful. Hidden Valley Original Ranch dressing is now available in single-serving cups that require no refrigeration — making these 2.5 oz cups of ranch dressing perfect for dipping veggies or livening up any salad.

If your busy schedule makes healthy eating a challenge, consider the following "no-excuses" tips on how you can get your five-a-day on the go.

Deskside Lunch

Some mornings you wake up and know you won't have time to take a lunch break. In the interest of your health, make time in the morning to toss a salad you can take with you. Hidden Valley Original Ranch Single Cups will solve your "dressing" problem. Since they require no refrigeration and pack neatly in your purse or briefcase, they are the perfect accompaniment to your healthy desk-side lunch.

Auto Lunch

If you know you'll be lunching in your car, skip the fast food drive-thru and grab a bag of baby carrots, wheat crackers and a ranch dressing single cup as you head out the door. When it's lunchtime and you're between meetings or errands, place the dressing in your car's cup holder, open the bag of carrots and crackers and dip and nibble in the quiet confines of your parked car.

Kids also need five servings of fruits and vegetables a day. If you're having trouble getting your kids to down their veggies, try packing single-serving cups of ranch dressing in their lunchbox along with a variety of fresh vegetable sticks. You'll be surprised how a little dip can make a serving of carrots and celery go down easier.

might also take care of the noise factor in your house. You might also want to invest in a good pair of ear plugs for every member of the family for nights when these two get together. Also, if you are worried about neighbors hearing it, you might want to let them know about it ahead of time, so they don't call the police! Last resort, you might want to add some insulation around the room the girl occupies.

Noisy? Yes! Harmful or abnormal? No! If you can rough it out, it is probably some of the greatest, good, clean, fun your daughter will have and she will remember it with fond memories for a lifetime!

1999 Jeep Cherokee: where value meets versatility

After a major freshening for 1997, the Jeep Cherokee enters 1999 as the unbeatable combination for value and versatility among lower-middle sport-utility vehicles. The Jeep Cherokee line-up for 1999 includes SE and Sport models in both two- and four-door body styles, as well as four-door classic and limited models.

Within the line, the Cherokee Sport gets a freshened exterior appearance for 1999. The front grille, head lamp surroundings, front and rear bumpers and rear license plate brow are now painted in body color. Cherokee Sport is positioned directly above the SE version, offering a richer specification without a top-of-the-line sticker price. Its new appearance and functional interior, including an instrument cluster with tachometer and four gauges, stereo radio/cassette/clock combination with four speakers, spare tire cover and rear window defroster will appeal to customers who are looking for value along with unmatched versatility and capability.

Other features added throughout the Cherokee line for 1999 includes optional heated seats on the Limited version, which come with both driver and front passenger six-way power adjustment and a 124-amp alternator. Across the line, new one-piece weather strips around the front and rear door windows minimize outside noise, water and dust intrusion into the interior.

Also added to the option list for the first time is the Sentry Key™ immobilizer, a sophisticated vehicle theft-deterrent system that uses the on-board electronics and a small integrated circuit chip in the key to prevent the engine from running without a valid ignition key.

For 1999, Cherokee is offered in two new exterior colors — Forest Green and Desert Sand — and two new interior colors — Camel and Agate. The previous "Cherokee", "Sport" and "Classic" decals are replaced by more upscale, dimensional graphics.

Under the hood, Cherokee SE comes equipped with the Power-Tech 2.5-liter four-cylinder engine that develops 125 horsepower and 150 lb.-ft. of torque, coupled with a five-speed manual transmission.

1999 JEEP CHEROKEE

Toyota's Sienna — the 'Camry of Minivans' — adds new safety feature

Designed with the same emphasis on safety, comfort, exceptional performance and benchmark quality that went into top-selling Camry, the Toyota Sienna minivan enters its sophomore year with a new model and additional safety features.

For 1999, Sienna adds a 5-door CE base grade to its comprehensive model mix along with an optional power sliding door system for LE and XLE grade levels. The right-hand sliding door effortlessly opens and closes by depressing a control switch located on both the instrument panel and on the center pillar. The power door system also may be activated by a button on the vehicle's wireless remote transmitter.

Safety features include standard daytime running lights on all models, a front passenger seat belt warning system and Sienna's remote transmitter receives a panic alarm button even if the vehicle is not equipped with a theft deterrent system. For added security, an engine immobilizer will be packaged with the existing keyless-entry security system.

Also new for Sienna are optional integrated dual Child Restraint Seats (CRS) in the rear bench seat (not available in XLE grades). The CRS utilizes a five-point belt restraint and is fully detachable for easy cleaning, and for added convenience, audio control switches have been added to the steering wheel. It is now possible to select a new station, adjust the volume or mute the radio from the steering-wheel mounted controls.

Sienna rides on a stretched and modified Camry platform with wheelbase of 114.2 inches, compared to the Camry's 105.2. It is front-wheel drive and features Camry's powerful 3.0 liter V-6 engine and four-speed automatic transmission. It is built exclusively at Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Kentucky in Georgetown, Ky. (TMMK), right alongside the Camry.

Engineered specifically for the American market, Sienna was developed to take full advantage of Toyota's growing base of North American suppliers, as well as its U.S.-based research and development group, the Toyota Technical Center. It is the third Toyota vehicle built at TMMK and the fifth Toyota model built in North America.

Offered in CE, LE and XLE trim levels, the Sienna appeals to a broad spectrum of minivan buyers thanks to its wide array of standard features and options.

Safe Haven

Occupant safety is a priority for minivan buyers and the Sienna delivers. Toyota has developed a passive safety body structure that considers all current and foreseeable crash test criteria in the U.S., Europe and Asia, as well as Toyota's own stringent set of proprietary criteria.

Toyota's goal was to achieve an impact-absorbing body crush zone to help absorb as much collision energy as possible, while helping to distribute much of the energy to the entire body frame, thus helping to reduce the force of the collision impact on the occupants. In addition to using underbody and upper body frame construction that helps absorb and distribute impact energy, the reinforcements inside the front side members are designed to produce a stronger body construction.

The Sienna's rigid, lightweight, reinforced unitized body composition features a front crumple zone, and side-impact beams. Designed to fold progressively, the crumple zone helps absorb impact energy and transfer it away from the cabin.

Toyota's Tire Pressure Warning System is a standard feature on Sienna. ABS Wheel-speed measure each wheel's rotational speed relative to the other wheels, allowing the system to detect low pneumatic pressure in tires. Once underinflation is detected, a visual warning light will alert the driver.

Additional standard safety equipment includes dual air bags, anti-lock brakes and front seatbelts with pretensioners and front limiters. Height-adjustable ELR three-point seatbelts are standard for front seat passengers (ALR feature on front passenger-side seat), with single-position ALR/ELR three-point seatbelts for all four outboard rear-seat positions.

Power and Performance

The Sienna delivers class-leading performance with its efficient twin-cam 24-valve all-aluminum V6 engine. Producing 194 horsepower and 209 lb.-ft. of torque, the Sienna provides quick acceleration and nimble handling for an extremely smooth, quiet and refined ride.

Sienna's silky engine performances is complemented by its independent front MacPherson strut suspension with an L-shaped lower arm in the front, and torsion beam rear suspension. The chassis is controlled by power-assisted rack-and-pinion steering. CE and LE models equipped with standard full-wheel covers ride on 205/70R15 all-season radial tires. XLE models equipped with aluminum alloy wheels feature 215/65R15 tires. For sure stopping, ventilation front-disc and rear-drum brakes are teamed with a standard anti-lock braking system (ABS).

Comfort and Convenience

Sienna was designed to offer optimum interior roominess in a compact, easy-to-manuever package. It's a versatile vehicle that drives like a sedan and is as easy to park in town as it is willing to haul family and cargo on a weekend outing.

Sienna's spacious interior is a versatile and inviting place for passengers and precious cargo. Sienna features a height adjustable driver's seat on CE and LE grades and a multi-adjustable power driver-side seat on the XLE grade. Equipped with bench or middle row captain's chairs (not available on CE), all grades receive separate second- and third-row outboard seat headrests. Bank Repossessed Vehicles to be sold Directly to the Public

Local Waukegan Dealership
Disposing of 249 Bank Repos and Other Used Vehicles For Only $69... Then Start Making Payments

WAUKEGAN, IL-

Bank Repossessed cars and trucks are among the most searched-for bargains in the automotive industry. Unfortunately for the average person, they're also the hardest to come by.

Banks often sell repossessed vehicles to car dealers at rock-bottom prices - allowing dealers to re-sell them for retail value. But bargain-hunters can take heart: This week, Union Nissan is going to change that.

This Wednesday, October 20th through Saturday, October 23rd, Union Nissan will offer 249 bank repossessed, lease return and other used vehicles for thousands below normal values, and pass the savings on to their customers.

"These vehicles have been acquired at incredible savings from banks (repos), auctions, and other sources," Malcolm Thurman, General Sales Manager of Union Nissan said. "Our creditors have asked us to sacrifice this inventory immediately - regardless of loss of profit. And if that means selling these vehicles for near or below wholesale, then that's what we'll do."

Every bank repossessed and other pre-owned vehicle will be available for just a $69 acquisition fee* then start making payments. "It's that simple," said Thurman. "To make these bargains even easier, we'll mark the payments right on the windshield. Just pick your vehicle and pick your payment. You won't find a faster, easier way to get a great deal on a pre-owned vehicle."

Almost every type of vehicle and price range will be available, from luxury 4x4s to basic transportation. Many are still under warranty. "With our pre-owned inventory near an all-time high, chances are we have what you're looking for in stock and ready to drive home," Thurman added.

Extra staff from across the U.S. have been flown in to assure Union Nissan customers prompt, quality service and the best finance terms possible. Thurman said, "We'll have over $3.5 million in financing available for this event, so chances are we can arrange financing for just about anyone who is employed, regardless of past credit history."

Trade-ins will be accepted, and customers are encouraged to bring their title or payment book to expedite delivery."

"The opportunity Waukegan area bargain hunters have been waiting for happens this Wednesday through Saturday at Union Nissan. Every bank repo and other used vehicle is just $69 then start making payments. Customers won't see savings like this again all year," said Thurman.

After the 96 hour SuperSale ends at 5:00 p.m. on Saturday October 23rd, Union Nissan will send many of these vehicles to auction. Any question can be directed to (847) 244-8000. Union Nissan is located at 3315 West Grand Avenue in Waukegan.

*Limit 2 vehicles per household, Please. '69 plus tax, title, license & doc. fee, with approved credit.

SIENNA: Adds new safety feature

Two bottle holders are placed throughout the cabin, depending on seat and door configurations. Flexible, removable modular seating allows for custom configurations to accommodate a variety of cargo requirements. Second-row bench seats or captain's chairs and third-row seats can be folded or easily removed to accommodate bulkier cargo items. Third-row seats also added a 50/50 split-folding and tie-down feature for additional cargo space. Rear compartment passengers don't take a back seat when it comes to comfort. Sienna's rear powerport and dual air conditioner rear heating controls provide a high level of convenience to all passengers. The instrument panel offers a driver-oriented cockpit, with easy-to-read speedometer, tachometer, fuel and temperature gauges, an LCD combination meter with dual trip meters and digital odometer. Added to gauges are low washer fluid and low tire pressure warning lights. User-friendly controls are logically placed in the front console according to usage. Audio and rotary-type ventilation controls are located within easy reach, making the most frequently used systems more accessible. For extra comfort, three center ventilation ducts are positioned to allow the two outer ducts to be directed to front seat occupants, with middle duct directed to the rear. At the bottom of the center console is an additional 12-volt outlet for a cellular phone or other electronic equipment. The Sienna features two different standard audio systems for superior sound quality. A Deluxe electronically tuned AM/FM radio (2TR) and cassette with four-speakers is standard on CE and LE grades. XLE models offer a high-powered 3-in-1 ETR/Cassette/CD player with six speakers. Thoughtful storage features abound in the Sienna's cabin, including fabric sunvisors, covered vanity mirrors, center console compartment, door pockets and a pull-out storage drawer beneath the front seat of the full-door model. Located in the front overhead area of the cabin is a convenient storage area that can be customized to hold either a garage door opener or sunglasses. Sienna makes normally optional equipment standard, including washer-linked intermittent front wipers, auto-off headlamps and remote fuel-door release. The LE model adds a host of additional standard features including power windows, door locks and mirrors, cruise control, rear window defogger, dual illuminated covered vanity mirrors and auto-dimming interior theater lighting with immediate cutoff following locking of the doors. XLE standard features include second-row captain's chairs, automatic headlight control system, heated mirrors, leather-wrapped steering wheel and an anti-theft device with keyless entry. The interior lighting system on LE and XLE models features a cutoff function that automatically turns off interior lights if they are left on more than 30 minutes, thus preserving the life of the battery. The optional driver-side sliding door offers greater flexibility to both driver and passengers. An interlock full-open stopper prevents both sliding doors from closing unintentionally by their own weight, such as in situations where the vehicle is parked on a slope. When the sliding doors are locked by the system, the inner or outer door handle releases the lock and enables the door to be closed. A half-door stopper also limits the driver-side door from fully opening when the fuel lid is opened to prevent the door from making contact with the fueling area. The doors also adopt child-protection locks for added safety. Optionally available on LE and XLE models is a power-operated passenger-side sliding door. Controlled manually from the passenger-side B-pillar switch, an instrument panel switch or remote keypad, the power door's "smart" design automatically senses when an obstacle is in its path and retracts.

Beaubien seeks another term

State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Wauconda) announced that he will seek another term in the Illinois House of Representatives. He will be running in the March 21 primary.

Beaubien said he will run a positive campaign disseminating his record of accomplishments for the 52nd District.

Porter missed

Local Sierra Club leaders reacted with sadness at the news of U.S. Rep. John Porter's announcement that he will not seek re-election in 2000.

"Congressman Porter has always had the north suburbs' support for environmental protection in Congress, and he will be sorely missed," said Jack Darin, director of Sierra Club, Illinois Chapter.

Local Sierra Club leaders are hopeful Porter's replacement will keep up that tradition.

Senior forum set

Area legislators have been invited to participate in a legislative forum on issues of interest to seniors on Friday, Nov. 12.

The public forum will be held from 8:30 to 11 a.m. at the Libertyville Senior Center, 135 W. Church St., Libertyville.

Who to write to save VA funding

Veterans still have time to let their concerns be known about the proposed cuts in services at the North Chicago VA Medical Center.

The Veterans Administration has given all stakeholders (veterans and their families) until Oct. 31 to provide their comments regarding the 'VISN 12' report. The report calls for transferring all inpatient services at the North Chicago VA to other facilities in the Chicago area.

The address on the Internet to review the report is www.va.gov/cno/. A mailbox is included on the website where comments can be sent.

Written comments can also be submitted to: Chief Network Office (10N), 810 Vermont Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20420.

Vet rally has a solid turnout

By JOE VAN ZANDT
Correspondent

More than 200 veterans, many from communities in west Lake County, rallied Saturday outside the North Chicago Veterans Affairs Medical Center in hopes the event and similar demonstrations will convince Congress to keep such facilities open.

A proposal being considered in Congress is seeking closure of many medical centers located in the northern states such as Illinois. Authors of the plan claim that, as more and more elderly veterans move to the warmth of Sun Belt states, facilities such as the North Chicago center are not treating enough patients to justify their continued operation.

But the vets and their supporters at the rally made it clear they are not buying that argument.

John Brandstetter of Grayslake, who served in the Marines from 1948 to 1951, braved Saturday's biting wind and rain to participate in the rally on behalf of two old Marine Corps buddies. Wounded in the service of their country, they are permanently disabled.

A new organization has been formed to represent citizens with the goal of improving transportation in Lake County.

The new group calls itself Citizens to Protect Quality of Life through Better Transportation. State Rep. Sidney Mathias (R-Buffalo Grove), Grayslake Mayor Pat Carey and Vernon Hills Mayor Roger Byrne have been named as spokespersons for the group. Other political and business leaders are expected to sign on shortly.

Candidates line up for Porter seat

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

U.S. Rep. John Porter's retirement has created a wide open congressional race in the 10th District, and candidates from both parties are testing the waters.

Democrats see an opportunity to capture a congressional seat that has been long held by Republicans. State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Deerfield) has expressed an interest in running for the seat, and at least one other individual, Chicago attorney Chris Cohen, has already announced his candidacy.

Republican hopefuls, meanwhile, appear to be waiting to see whether or not Lt. Gov. Corrine Wood will enter the fray. Many Republicans see Wood as the front-runner if she chooses to run.

"It's my impression that many of the Republican leaders in that district are waiting to see what the lieutenant governor is going to do," a state Republican official said.

County focuses educational effort on reducing leaf burning problems

Regional Editor

Now that the smoke has cleared over a proposed leaf burning ban, county officials have decided to take another approach: education.

The Lake County Administrator's Office, in cooperation with the Lake County Health Department and Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO), are distributing fliers to more than 220,000 residents in the county on the leaf burning issue.

Patrick Urlich, assistant county administrator, said the fliers, which were mailed out, were inserted inside a special brochure SWALCO is distributing to residents about recycling and other solid waste issues.

Urlich said County Board members voted against a ban or restrictions on leaf burning, but emphasized they wanted to see "more education" of the public on the alternatives to leaf burning and ways to reduce the impact of smoke on neighbors.

CANDIDATES: Porter vacancy hotly pursued bids but indicated Wood's decision on whether to run could impact their decision.

Moore, who serves the Illinois House's 61st District, said she is giving a bid for Congress careful thought. "I love my district and I love being a state representative but this opportunity only presents itself once every 20 years," she said. "I'm looking carefully at this opportunity."

Moore said she will likely make an announcement on whether she intends to run within the next week or so. Wood's decision whether to enter the race would be a consideration. "I would have to think carefully before I'd get into the race (if Wood decides to run)," she said.

Coulson, meanwhile, said she would not be a candidate if Wood chooses to run.

"I would not run against her (Wood)," said Coulson. "I would support her candidacy."

Coulson said she has received several calls from people in both Lake and Cook counties urging her to run for the seat. She said her agenda would be very similar to Porter's, emphasizing issues like health care and education.

On the Democratic side, State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) weighed a bid for the congressional post but opted to stay out of the race.

After Porter's announced departure from the race, Link said he "mull[ed] this over quite a bit but I think it's the best thing for me to stay in the Illinois Senate."

"I'm definitely out (of the congressional race). I enjoy what I'm doing. I enjoy being in the state Senate, and that's where I'm going to stay, hopefully for many more years," he said.

Gash, meanwhile, said she is leaning toward a bid for the congressional post.

"There's a strong probability I will be a candidate. I've been contacted by a lot of people throughout the district—Democrats, Independents and Republicans, urging me to run," said Gash.

Gash said she has been approached to run by both state and national Democratic officials, including House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt. Republicans hold a slim 5 vote margin in the U.S. House.

Although running as a Democrat, Gash emphasized she has a strong "independent" voting record, much like the Republican Porter. She said she would not have considered a bid had Porter not announced his retirement.

"I would have been hesitant to have given up my Judiciary chairmanship to run against Congressman Porter. Congressman Porter was a good strong congressman and a good fit for this district," she said.

Gash will face competition in the primary if she decides to run.

Cohen, a Chicago real estate and tax attorney who lives in Glencoe, made official his intention to run for the congressional seat last week. Cohen said while he just made his candidacy official, he has been planning a bid for several months.

In fact, he said about 100 Democrats from Cook and Lake counties met in September at the Jewett Park Fieldhouse in Deerfield. At the time, Cohen said the six Democratic county leaders, including Link and Gash, endorsed him as the candidate to run against Porter.

"I expect the people that endorsed me will be true to their word," he said.

However, Cohen said if other Democrats decide to run he welcomes the competition. "Of course, it's easier if there are fewer people in the primary, but I welcome competition," he said.

Cohen was a former Chicago City Council member for eight years during the 1970s. He served as regional director of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for six Midwestern states under President Jimmy Carter's administration.

Cohen said the 10th congressional district was once considered a safe seat for Republicans, but "the district is undergoing significant demographic changes" and many Democrats are moving into the district.

He cited the elections of Link and State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) as just a couple examples of that change.

"This is a very winnable congressional district for a Democrat," he said.

BURNING: Brochure printed

The leaf burning brochure discusses some of the alternatives residents have to leaf burning, such as mulching and composting leaves, commercial pickup of leaves by waste haulers, or the disposing of landscape waste materials at designated compost facilities.

It also outlines "good neighbor leaf burning tips." Some of the tips include avoiding burning on windy days or on days when the wind is blowing in the direction of your neighbors; not burning wet leaves; and burning during morning and afternoon hours when the smoke clears the most quickly.

The cost of the leaf burning insert was about $7,300 to print, and another $6,500 for labor costs associated with the inserting process.

The County Administrator's Office originally recommended a leaf burning ban. The county health department proposed either a ban or restrictions on leaf burning.

The Lake County Board, however, voted 15-6 against either a ban or restrictions on the times of year when people could burn. The board, instead, emphasized the need for more education of the public on alternatives to leaf burning.

Dale Galassie, executive director of the health department, said the educational effort is an attempt to reduce problems associated with leaf burning.

According to national figures, more than 29,000 people suffer from asthma in Lake County. The Illinois Department of Public Health reported 1,009 hospitalizations and 12 deaths from asthma in the county in 1997.

"The County Board represents the diversity of Lake County. This county is not ready to implement a burning ban or restrictions, but hopefully the issue has received more attention and people will try to burn more conscientiously," he said.

VETS: Protest well attended

Gurnee and Bob Dondy of Fox Lake," Brandstetter said. "They both use this facility. If it closes, it will be a real problem for them to go somewhere else much farther away."

Robert Wegge of Grayslake, who served in the Army from 1950 to 1953, seconded Brandstetter. Added Wegge, "We have more and more aging vets in need. The only place many of them can turn for medical help is here."

In exchange for putting their lives on the line in faraway places, Wegge said, those Americans who served in various branches of the Armed Forces were assured by the government that their needs would be provided for later in the event they required help. For Congress to close facilities such as the North Chicago VA Medical Center would be to renege on that long-standing promise, he said.

Dick Heard of Ingleside, who served with the Army from 1954 to 1956, belongs to American Legion Post 703 and VFW Post 9655 in Fox Lake. He said members of both posts strongly support the effort to save the North Chicago center and other VA centers. He said members of both units have been conducting a letter-writing campaign to convince Congress to "get with the program."

Fellow VFW member Nancy Romano of Fox Lake agreed. A Navy veteran who served from 1943 to 1946, Romano said money should not be the issue in deciding the fate of VA medical centers. "The vets paid for these facilities with their lives and their body parts," he said.

Walter March of North Chicago said he was pleased with the large turnout of vets and supporters. An Army veteran who served in 1944 and 1945, March is legally blind, with eyesight limited to peripheral vision. If the North Chicago center closes, March said, he will have a hard time finding someone able to drive him to a VA hospital in Chicago or Milwaukee for medical help.

Added Norman Arnsdahl of Libertyville, who served with the Army Air Corps following World War II, "Too many vets depend on this place to consider closing it. It's up to the country to uphold its promises to veterans."

Organizers of the rally have asked all veterans and those who support the veterans' cause to express their views. Letters should be sent to Chief Network Office (10N), Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20420. E-mail correspondence should be sent to www.va.gov/cno/.

GRIDLOCK: Group formed efforts on pushing for long needed transportation improvements for the area.

"We have spent a lot of time and a lot of money planning different road projects," said Carey. "I think there has to be a time when we say we've got to make some decisions and we've got to build something."

Carey admits she has been and still is a "staunch advocate" for Route 53. However, she said the group as a whole has yet to take a formal stance on Route 53 and that is just one of the transportation issues the group will address.

"This isn't a Route 53 group, it's a transportation group," said Carey. "There are a lot of other issues involved here. We're trying to get citizens involved in a positive way, in a proactive manner to make some decisions."

There are various groups who have opposed various road projects for different reasons, such as environmental impacts, displacement of homes and other issues. As a result, Carey said, progress has been stalled in getting anything done.

"I think it's easy to say 'let's not do something,'" she said. "I think we're stuck in analysis paralysis as part of planning for roads in Lake County. At some point, we have to do something."

Carey said she is very supportive of the efforts of the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project. The state funded project is studying a wide range of alternatives to address long-term traffic congestion problems in Lake County.

"I think it's a good mechanism for making some decisions," she said of the project.

The group points to future population projections to illustrate existing traffic congestion problems will only get worse unless something is done. State studies have shown the population of the county will grow by at least 250,000 new residents by the year 2020, even if no new roads are built.

"The traffic congestion we have now is only going to get worse unless we get going on a total transportation package. We need to get a total transportation package," said Dan Friedlander, a public relations representative for the group.

Citizens to Protect Quality of Life Through Better Transportation has established an address of Post Office Box 7529 in Libertyville, Ill., 60048 and a telephone number of 855-6460.

People who want petitions supporting the group may ask for them through the post office box or who want to support the group's efforts are urged to send checks of $25, $50, or 100 to the box to become a member of the organization. They will be contacted to see if they want to become an active or passive member of the group.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Antioch—After nine months of negotiations between the District 41 teachers union and the school board, the two parties came to a tentative agreement at 5 a.m. on Oct. 14.

If the two parties were unable to come to an agreement at their last negotiation the teachers voted 131-6 in favor of an Oct. 16 strike. The teachers were firm about what they deserved as far as salary, number of years it takes to reach top salary, benefits, and retirement incentives. The board was firm as to what they could and could not give the teachers. Both parties have agreed not to disclose the details of the settlement until all members of the board and teachers have been informed of the terms of the new agreement.

"We've worked very hard and have done incredible things. I appreciate every thing all of the teachers have done. We've all sacrificed quite a bit and made a lot of changes in education and made a lot of progress," said Joanne Osmond, a district board member.

Forum to address gangs

Round Lake—A forum on gangs will be held in the Round Lake High School auditorium Oct. 27 at 7 p.m.

Gang experts and local police agencies from the Round Lake area will provide information and literature on gangs.

Parents will learn to spot the warning signs of gang activity in their own children and their children's friends.

Arrest made in robberies

Round Lake Beach—A Round Lake Beach man has been charged with two counts of armed robbery for holding up a Shell gas station and 7-11 convenience store in Round Lake Beach.

Anthony A. Nardozi, 21, of the 35000 block of Orchard Lane, was arrested Oct. 17.

Surveillance video linked Nardozi to the crimes. Police located and confiscated a .38 special pistol inside a case in a drain tunnel of a ceramic bathtub in his home.

In a written statement, Nardozi confessed to robbing a Shell gas station clerk at gunpoint and stealing $800. He also confessed to robbing a 7-11 clerk at gunpoint for $329.

Nardozi is being held at the Lake County Jail in lieu of $500,000 bond.

Round Lake—A Round Lake resident is facing charges for leading police on a chase during the afternoon of Oct. 12.

The driver, identified as Ann P. Cunningham, 44, of Round Lake, reportedly fled the scene of a traffic violation in McHenry County.

Lake County Sheriff's deputies and Lakemoore police then pursued the vehicle through unincorporated Round Lake.

At one point, speeds reached 80 to 85 miles per hour in a 40 mile per hour zone.

She could face charges from McHenry, and the Lake County Sheriff's Department include felony fleeing and eluding, reckless driving, speeding in excess of 40 miles per hour over the posted legal limit while fleeing police, and running numerous stop signs.

Crash kills two teens

Lake County—Two area teenagers lost their lives in an automobile accident Oct. 14 near East Troy in southern Wisconsin. Two other teenagers were injured as a result of the crash.

Patrick J. Kurpiewski, 18, of Gurnee, and Brooke M. Daus, 18, of Gurnee, were pronounced dead at the scene at 6:20 p.m. Both were 1999 graduates of Carmel High School in Mundelein.

Moms for ribbons

Vickie Westergaard, left, and Debbie Myslinski are among the ALL organization members handing out red ribbons during Red Ribbon Week. The two Sequoit moms got an early start at last two home football games. Representatives will be out throughout Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst Oct. 22-24. Heather M. Carter, 18, of Wadsworth, and Elizabeth A. Bauer, 18, of Arlington Heights, were listed in critical, but stable condition in the intensive care unit of Froedtert Memorial Lutheran Hospital in Milwaukee.

The accident occurred after Carter's vehicle turned left from a stop sign and was struck on the passenger side by a pickup truck driven by Walter J. Koshen, 37, of Milton, Wis.

Koshen was treated at a nearby hospital and released.

$2 million in batteries stolen

Gurnee—Gurnee resident Brian McGhee of 5353 David Court was arrested on Oct. 14 for heisting over $2 million in Motorola cellular telephone batteries.

McGhee was remanded to the Lake County Jail on a $300,000 bond, after being apprehended while working at the Motorola Corp. facility in Libertyville.

Motorola security and Libertyville police discovered that McGhee was using the company's computer ordering system to send the batteries to over 50 addresses in Lake County and Wisconsin. He charged the bogus orders to a phony credit card. Apparently McGhee and those he shipped the batteries to were selling the batteries for profit. Authorities are investigating other co-conspirators in the scam, but no additional arrests have been made as of yet.

Forced annexation to vote

Lindenhurst—An approximate 60-acre area north and south of Grass Lake Road and west of Millburn is expected to be annexed into the Village of Lindenhurst Oct. 25. The village has the legal right to force annexation on the area because the land is surrounded by incorporated Lindenhurst and is less than 60 acres.

According to Lindenhurst Village Manager Jim Stevens, approximately five families live within the area. All but one of the families have responded against annexation.

"What the county allows is not always compliant with what the village allows," said Stevens. According to Stevens, the main reasons the village must annex the land are to regulate zoning and stop the construction of agricultural buildings and cell phone towers.

Oldenburger strongly requested Village Attorney Ken Clark to include a provision in the pre-annexation agreement requiring the petitioners to submit agreeable specifications for any residential development to take place. The desire to make sure the village has a say in the type and size of development is the result of previous annexations which did not specify conditions.

Antioch stipulates annexation

Old Mill Creek/Antioch—Wait just one minute. That is the call from Trustee Marvin Oldenburger regarding annexation requests for property on the east end of Antioch.

Oldenburger strongly requested Village Attorney Ken Clark to include a provision in the pre-annexation agreement requiring the petitioners to submit agreeable specifications for any residential development to take place. The desire to make sure the village has a say in the type and size of development is the result of previous annexations which did not specify conditions.

The result was smaller lot sizes and more units than the village board desires at this time. Owners for both parcels are in the process of working out pre-annexation agreements with the village. Owners of Timber Lake Park, a long time recreational camp ground, Kenneth J. Glick announced at the village board's Oct. 4 meeting the park will close following the 2000 camping season.

It's Red Ribbon time of year

Lake County—Leap into the Year 2000 Drug-Free! That is this year's theme of the National Red Ribbon Week celebration. Lake County schools, communities and various organizations are getting involved in the national trend to "Just Say No" to drug abuse. The traditional county wide rally is scheduled for noon-1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27 at the Lake County Courthouse west courtyard.

The calendar of events includes: Oct. 23 & 24 Religious Weekend, encouraging members of the religious community to incorporate red ribbon and its message into church services throughout the weekend; Oct. 25 Decoration Day when many communities put out red ribbons and banners; Oct. 26 Reach Out Day; Oct. 27 Red Ribbon Rally at noon at the Lake County Courthouse; Oct. 28 Pledge and sign-up poster day; Oct. 29 Recognition Day; Oct. 30-31 sports weekend.

For further information on county activities, contact InTouch 543-2056.

Local artists to show works

Lindenhurst—The Lake Villa District Library will be holding the first session of its three-part series devoted to local artist and their work. On Oct. 25 Betty Drapalik, Jim Christensen, and Virginia Morrisseau will be at the library between 7 and 8:30 p.m. Betty Drapalik does water color paintings.

Drapalik is a member of several artists organization such as the Midwest Watercolor Society and the Lake County Art League. Drapalik is also a charter member of the National Museum of Women in Arts. Christensen, an instructor of photography at the College of Lake County, received a bachelor degree from Southern Illinois University and then received a master of fine arts from Notre Dame.

Morrisseau began painting at the age of 9 and was later educated at the Boston Museum of Art. Morrisseau does a form of art that is hard which uses oil paint and beeswax which are heated and polished.

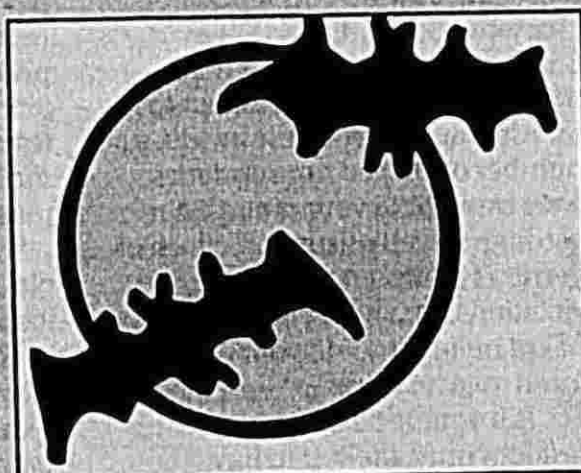

Morrisseau still takes time out for her art work by attending an advanced art class two evenings a week at the College of Lake County, and remaining an active member of the Lake County Art League.

School bus safety

With schools back in full swing by now, it is once again time to remember to drive carefully. With daylight getting shorter, weather getting wetter and more leaves falling, this combination can be easy distract motorists.

Watch for the young people, excited to get home and show mom and dad their daily work or a special project. Take extra care in school zones and around school buses.

Speaking of school buses, during a 48-hour period, two members of the Lakeland Newspapers editorial staff observed poor, bordering on reckless, driving of a school bus on the county's roads.

The first incident was a large, regular-sized school bus driving in excess of the speed limit and weaving in and out of traffic.

A smaller bus was involved in the second incident. Ironically, the staff member was waiting in a left turn lane at Grand Avenue and Route 83 to go to Lake Villa Police Department to make a report of a reckless van driver.

While at the red left turn light, the regular northbound light turned red. A couple of seconds later, in plenty of time to stop, a yellow flash streaked past. The school bus ran the red light. Unfortunately, it caught the staff member by surprise and identification of the school bus company or bus number was not able to be obtained.

Please, school bus drivers and all motorists, we are all entrusted to the care of the young children, future doctors, lawyers, factory workers, journalists and school bus drivers.

Slow down and think. Drive cautiously and safely. The life you save may be your own child's.

The Antioch community is banded together for a great common cause.

Last weekend, seven community organizations joined in a community-wide blood drive at the Antioch Moose Lodge on Route 173.

For six hours, anyone was welcome to give the gift of life, blood.

A great supporter shared his own experience regarding giving blood. Several years ago, his wife was experiencing medical problems. When he went into an area blood bank, he saw a sign explaining if one gives blood on a regular basis, the person's entire family is covered by the blood bank.

Unfortunately, his wife's condition worsened and she required over 20 pints of blood in an attempt to keep her alive. It did not succeed, despite making her life more livable for a short time.

Following her death, he received a statement from the blood bank. It explained how much the blood which she received WOULD have cost him. Since he was a member of the blood bank, which in turn made his entire family members as well, the cost was ZERO.

Since that day, he has been a great supporter of blood drives and blood banks.

Take the time. If you have questions about your eligibility, contact your local blood bank or hospital.

Please remember. Give the gift of heart and soul. The life you save, may be your own.

Say yes to life

Lake County is participating in the national Red Ribbon Week running Friday, Oct. 22 through Sunday, Oct. 31.

For those unaware of the idea behind Red Ribbon Week, it came about as result of Federal Drug Enforcement Agent, Enrique Camarena. Camarena was killed in the line of duty while attempting to stop drug traffickers along the U.S.-Mexico border. The red ribbon symbol has expanded to a yearly, nationwide event.

Communities sparked by interest from various school groups and organizations have rallied behind the cause.

The basic message is "Say No To Drugs."

A better message might be "Say Yes To Life and Living."

The Lake County Health Department In-Touch program in cooperation with Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse and the College of Lake County, are coordinating the county activities.

A web site is set up at <http://www.co.lake.il.us/redribbon>, to update interested students and community members on activities.

Heading the list of communities which pulls out all of the stops for Red Ribbon Week is Mundelein. From Antioch to Zion, and all communities lining the alphabet in between, each in their own way is involved in this nationwide effort.

For those who have the opportunity, stop by the noon-time rally Oct. 27 at the Lake County Courthouse west side courtyard from noon until 1 p.m.

Many schools, public and private, will have various activities during the 10-day period. Contact your local school and show your support.

VIEWPOINT

GOP voters like W.; Democrats split

Contrary to impressions fostered by network political pundits and the national media, not everyone is fretting about who's running for president in 2000. At least not in our town.

If you lean toward the Republican side, chances are you like the prospects of Texas Gov. George W. Bush. The entire regular GOP apparatus in Lake County lined up early to support another Bush candidacy.

Soundings taken by this column over the last 10 days indicate that Democrats will take their cue from two elected officials, State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills), an orthodox Democrat who likes the prospects of Vice President Al Gore, and State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park) who feels Sen. Bill Bradley best represents Democratic interests.

To professed independents, and they seem to be growing in numbers here like a lot of places around the nation, their reaction to inquiries about presidential politics ranged from bemusement to total detachment.

Bring up names like Gov. Jesse Ventura, Donald Trump and various Hollywood figures dabbling in national politics and laughter ensues, sort of like watching Letterman or Leno.

Of other presidential hopefuls, only former Vice President Quayle had a recognizable following in Lake County. He made two visits to the county in the last year, both times to the home in rural Wauconda of Mr. and Mrs. Al Salvi. Quayle talked issues and made sense, particularly on foreign policy matters. Dan Quayle was serious about the presidency; only no one took him seriously. That says more about American politics than Dan Quayle.

At the present, what support there is in Lake County for Pat Buchanan is invisible. Fifteen or 20 years ago, when Lake County had more blue collar industrial jobs, Buchanan's message of protection and isolation might have found a foothold. As a third party candidate, expect Buchanan to get a smattering of support in Lake County.

Sen. John McCain is admired as a patriot, but Republicans hereabouts haven't connected with the former prisoner of war for residence in the White House. McCain gets mention for veep when mentioned at all. Ditto for Elizabeth Dole. We didn't find any FOS's, Friends of Steve Forbes, at least not at this early date.

With the holiday season just around the corner, voters generally feel good. The economy's so good they take higher taxes and fee increases in stride. Everyone's working. There'll be plenty to be thankful for this Thanksgiving.

If Lake Countians aren't wringing their hands over Campaign 2000, what public questions are they talking about? That's easy to answer. Three things. Traffic, more traffic and impossible traffic.

Porter successor

Here's an easy political prediction: Congressman John Porter's successor will be a Republican who serves a long time. History is on the side of GOP longevity in the North Shore district. The late Marguerite Stitt Church represented the district for nearly two decades beginning in the early 1950's. Her husband, Ralph, was in Congress during the war years. The late Robert McClory, a Lake County resident, served many years in Washington after representing Lake County in both houses of the Illinois General Assembly. But Porter will outserve them with 21 years when he concludes his 11th term in 2000, the longest span in the history of the district.

Depression help

Several callers informed this column that Joan Fiorito is not at the mercy of uncaring government bureaucrats in seeking help for her aging mother, who is suffering from clinical depression. One caller was Mary Kay Fisher, a licensed clinical psychologist, who explained that research shows about 80 percent of clinical depressions can be significantly improved with medication and psychotherapy. A family doctor can prescribe medication. Medicare will pay for professional therapy.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Open letter to Asst. State's Attorney Mr. Hoffman:

I am aware that a complaint was filed with your department regarding the possibly illegally-issued bonds done by the Vernon Hills Park District.

I, too, filed a complaint with the park district and forwarded a letter to Mr. Waller on this subject. It is also my belief that their bond issue is in violation of Public Act 87 Tax Extension Act, which is the law governing tax caps in Lake County.

I have also filed a complaint with the village president of Vernon Hills, Roger Byrne, on Sept. 27, as I believe numerous village ordinances were ignored in approving the special use permit for the Aquatic Park expansion, but have not received a response back to date.

I understand that it is your opinion that your office is not empowered to enforce these state statutes. Kindly advise me who is responsible for seeing that governmental bodies chartered under Illinois State Statutes follow the Illinois State Statutes, so that I may contact them for assistance. As you are aware, a number of alleged improprieties were brought to your attention regarding alleged misuse of Village of Vernon Hills funds, open meeting violations, etc., by certain village board members, and your office refused to investigate.

Is it your legal opinion that a resident must file suit to have the Illinois State Statutes enforced? If so, I question why your office has investigated other complaints against other villages and park districts, specifically, Warren Township (alleged misuse of village funds by supervisor and employees), Barrington (regarding the Taubman mall dispute and alleged open meetings violations), Grayslake Park District (alleged open meeting violations), and most recently, Gurnee (alleged open meeting violations).

At the time you told the complainant some of the statutes of limitation precluded your investigating, but were not specific, and some of the complaints were simply not responded to. What does one do to get state laws enforced in this county? It

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

He's running on his record

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) said he will be "running on my legislative record" in his re-election bid for a second term to the Illinois House in the 30th senatorial district.

Link officially kicked off his campaign for a second term to the House on Oct. 6. He pointed to his legislative record, including having 45 bills signed into law on a variety of topics, including women's issues and domestic violence, gun control legislation and early childhood development.

"I've worked very hard to represent my district to the best of my ability," said Link. "I've been instrumental in forming a coalition with political parties in both Houses to advance needs of the district."

The 59-year-old Link, who is seeking a second term, will not be unchallenged, however. Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams has already announced he will be a candidate for Link's seat in the Republican primary. There has been speculation of other possible candidates, including Lake County Board member Martha Marks (R-Riverwoods).

Link said he realizes there will be competition but that will not change the way he does his job or runs his campaign.

"I'm not worried about what the other side does. I'm running on what I stand for and what I've done," he said.

No free ride

State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) will not have a free ride in her bid for a second term to the state House.

Cesille Price, a 44-year-old school activist from Lake Forest, announced she will be a Republican candidate for the House seat held by the freshman Democrat. The 59th Illinois House district runs along the eastern portion of the county from Lake Forest north to Waukegan, and west to Knollwood, Green Oaks and Mettawa.

Garrett had indicated earlier that some Republican leaders had

Richardson: Does not have a future as a professional singer tried to convince her to switch parties but she told them she wasn't interested. Republicans have denied this.

Power plant re(leaf)

The banter around the editorial office about important goings-on in the county led the staff to two important subjects; the leaf burning ban and the proposed power plants in Lake County.

Even though ComEd had its troubles this summer in supplying electricity, neighborhood power plants are not a popular concept, and opinion on a leaf burning ban, which got dumped by the county board when push came to shove, is strongly divided on either side of the fence.

The solution that came out of the small talk from the editorial office is sure to solve nothing and at the same time get everybody upset. So, here it is: Why not build a power plant that creates energy from burning leaves?

Don't say we didn't warn you.

Silent treatment

When Gurnee's Mayor Richard Welton and village trustees met with Lake County's Deputy State's Attorney Mitchell Hoffman to discuss the Illinois Open Meetings Act, they were advised to discipline themselves when speaking publicly with others.

Two to tango

Illinois Attorney General Jim Ryan advised Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson and Circuit Court Clerk Sally Coffelt not to quit their "day jobs" after they sang a tribute to Republican State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis at a recent fund-raiser in Gurnee.

At the same event, Geo-Karis snagged Ryan for the first dance of the evening claiming that he is "one of the few state representatives that knows how to dance."

Losing shelter

Trustee Fred Messmer mentioned during the Lindenhurst Village Board's unanimous vote to support the federal funding for the North Chicago Veterans' Administration (VA) Hospital about a situation a couple of years back involving the Lindenhurst Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) post.

Seems a request was put out by the VA at North Chicago for clothing for their thrift shop. The shop is used by many homeless veterans who are in need of clothing, especially during the fall and winter months. In a one-day collection by the Lindenhurst VFW, nearly 4,000 pounds of useable clothing was collected. The thrift store is one of the facets of the VA Center which would be lost if the budget cuts go through.

'New' fast food

During discussion of the new Burger King coming to Lindenhurst, Trustee Fred Messmer remarked he remembered when the Dog 'N Suds was the only fast food restaurant in town.

Mayor Paul Baumunk remembered the excitement that Trustee Jim Betustak, and the board had when McDonald's came to town.

Betustak was ribbed by fellow board members that it must have been at least 30 years ago or longer.

'Shakespeare in Love,' rent it!

Eight years ago the movie "City Slickers," starring Billy Crystal, Bruno Kirby, Daniel Stern and Jack Palance, was a box-office smash about three buddies with mid-life crises leaving New York for a cattle-ranch vacation to cure their depressions.

The movie was loaded with one-liners about the meaning of life. I was inspired enough to write two columns.

Two columns about one flick? An office wit announced to the whole newsroom, "Let's take up a collection and send Pfarr to another movie!"

Well, I finally found the right one but will restrain myself and cover it in this one fell swoop.

I rented "Shakespeare in Love," the romantic comedy that won Oscars for best picture and best actress, Gwyneth Paltrow, Blythe Danner's daughter.

My huge book, "The Complete Works of Shakespeare," fills 2,400 pages and weighs 10 pounds. Shakespeare was whipping out his plays with a quill and ink. It's absolutely scary how much more he might have written had the word processor been invented 400 years ago.

Young Shakespeare is played by newcomer Joseph Fiennes, the younger brother of British actor Ralph Fiennes who, incidentally, has played "Hamlet" on Broadway.

In this movie, Shakespeare is scrambling to make a living while suffering from a serious case of writer's block. The play he's trying to pull off is "Romeo and Ethel, the Pirate's Daughter."

Then he meets Viola, the poetry-infatuated daughter of a wealthy merchant who fell in love with Shakespeare's words before she met him.

Their passionate romance gives Shakespeare the inspiration he needs and words once again flow from his pen. And, of course, his current play becomes "Romeo and Juliet."

At one productive point he exclaims, "God, I'm good!"

After a bedroom scene, Viola says: "I would not have thought it. There is something better than a play!"

Shakespeare: "There is?"

Viola: "Even one of your plays."

Shakespeare: "Hmmm?"

At this point, in 1595, Shakespeare is a rising star but not as successful as fellow poet and dramatist Christopher Marlowe.

A scoundrel who wants to wed Viola and whisk her off to America, suspects Shakespeare has violated her bedchamber.

"I will cut throat anon," the bad guy warns. "What is your name?"

Shakespeare replies, "Christopher Marlowe, at your service."

Film critic Roger Ebert called "Shakespeare in Love" a sweet love story full of wit and energy.

"A movie like this," he wrote, "is a reminder of the long thread that connects Shakespeare to the kids' opening tonight in a storefront. You get a theater, you learn the lines, you strut your stuff, you hope there's an audience, you fall in love with another member of the cast."

British movie director John Madden doesn't sugarcoat the period the way historical dramas often do. The clothes, even those worn by the aristocracy, look as dirty as they would have been.

High school and college Shakespeare students will find this movie enriching. Knowledge of Shakespeare isn't necessary, but it certainly adds to the enjoyment.

Cyber Porn

Cyber porn has reached perverted levels beyond all imagination. Worse than Sodom and Gomorrah could ever have been.

Children can see tons of free samples by just answering yes to, "Are you 18?" on the screen.

It's like putting beer machines on every street corner. No one to check ID's. No one to enforce the law. Just a sign that says you must be 18 to buy. It's crazy.

Internet providers are guilty of gross negligence. At the very least they are violating anti-display laws. Parents should try to sue the providers under the Victims of Pornography Act passed by Congress a few years ago. It was law suits that brought the tobacco industry to its knees. Football games can be blacked out in different cities. Why couldn't the Internet be blocked out so not to transgress the different community standards of porn?

The issue is not individual rights. But it is the rights of the communities to prevent the breeding of Ted Bundy's that will walk their streets, stalk innocent victims and pollute their tranquil environment.

We have the drugs and alcohol agency. Why can't we have a communications decency agency? The states could create an elected office of Obscenity Judge. Being elected his mandate would be the community standards of porn for that State. He could be given powers to issue orders, levy fines, etc.—

Should Congress rewrite the First Amendment in simple third grade English so that even a supreme court judge could interpret it?

Road representation

This letter is mainly addressed to my fellow elected officials in Lake County.

On Saturday, Oct. 2, I attended a seminar entitled "Transportation 2000: Can we get there from here?" sponsored by the Lake County Conservation Alliance. I could pretty much count on one hand the municipalities that were represented by an elected official. Out of 23 Lake County Board members, there were only a few. I was happy to see our Lake County Board President Jim LaBelle in attendance and also State Senator Terry Link and Representative Susan Garrett, the only two state legislators there.

The speakers were not just local people, but experts that came from other states to explain how they have remedied the problems we are experiencing concerning transportation planning, land use, traffic calming and regional growth. This seminar was held at the College of Lake County, right in our own backyard, and not in Springfield or Chicago.

I know I don't know the answers to solve our transportation problems, but I'm trying to get as much information as I can. It's too bad that there weren't more elected officials there so we can all learn and work together to improve our county.

Porter War

Now that 10th District Congressman John Porter announced that he will not run for reelection, everyone seems to be going for the position. Everyone has that right, but one of those most pursuing the race raises some questions. Since I am the vice-chairman of the Lake County Democratic Party, I probably shouldn't be talking about one of the GOP first to make noises about the position, but it raises some questions that go beyond party politics.

Lt. Governor Corinne Wood served one term as a state representative. She left the legislature to be Governor George Ryan's running mate and now serves as lieutenant governor. Ten months later, Wood is now saying that she is strongly looking to run for Congress. Gov. Ryan says that she is the "most attractive candidate the Republicans could field."

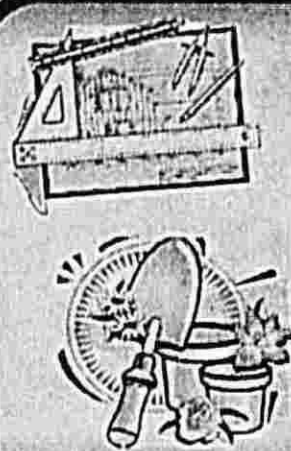

Therein lies the questions. Are the reports about the "feud" between Ryan and Wood true, and is this a way from breaking away from one another? During the "spat," Lt. Gov. Wood has been telling the public how important the position of lieutenant governor is to the public and how much she is contributing in that role.

Surely, she wants to run for Congress with the idea of winning. Does she realize that, if she wins, the office that she is telling us is so important would be totally vacant for two years? There is no constitutional provision for filling a vacancy for lieutenant governor, as there is for governor. Gov. Ryan, too, says that he will support Wood's decision, if she chose to run for Congress. I guess that he doesn't think having a lieutenant governor is necessary, either.

Politicians always say that they defend the constitution. Wood would be doing what a lot of them do and that is running in the middle of a term, so "they can't lose." But, she would be leaving a constitutional statewide public office totally vacant, if she won, and I believe this is a case of choosing political selfishness over public commitment. Maybe, Gov. Ryan had some reasons to feud over Lt. Gov. Wood's political aggressiveness.

FALL Home & Garden '99

Setting the trend for home exteriors

Each year, droves of consumers visit the "Idea Homes" of the most prestigious lifestyle magazines in the United States to discover the latest interior designs, home furnishings and building materials. These display homes are regarded as the bellwethers of architectural trends, signaling prevailing consumer home demands. Although this year's inspirational homes feature many unique aspects, they do have at least one trait in common: Many are clad in siding products from James Hardie Building Products.

Examples of display homes that used James Hardie siding this year, include the following: The architects and builders of the Better Homes and Gardens "Blueprint 2000" home for the new millennium in Chapel Hill, N.C.; Southern Living's Idea House near the Village of Pinehurst, N.C.; Coastal Living's Idea House in Carillon Beach, Fla.; and Sunset's Idea House in Cupertino, Calif.

"James Hardie siding products allowed us to capture the essence of the character we were trying to achieve, yet they also offer a virtually maintenance-free base," said J. Carson Looney, FAIA, with Looney Ricks Kiss Architects in Memphis, Tenn., the firm that designed the Better Homes and Gardens show house.

Due to its proprietary fiber-cement technology, Hardiplank siding from James Hardie Building Products is the first lap siding material that does not compromise a home's character or necessitate heavy upkeep. It is guaranteed by a 50-year warranty not to rot, warp, buckle, swell or delaminate, even if exposed to rain, hail, humidity or insects.

"We have been using Hardiplank siding for several years because it won't warp, split or rot," says Jose Camina with Camina Design & Construction, the firm that built this year's Southern Living Idea House near the Village of Pinehurst, N.C. "With Hardiplank siding, I don't have to worry about 'callbacks' from homeowners because the product holds paint well, stays put and looks great."

After proving itself for more than two decades, leading builders and architects are confident in selecting Hardiplank siding to create today's desired home style. In fact, over the past 10 years, more than one million homes have been built with Hardiplank siding in the United States.

Due to the product's success, it has received numerous honors. For example, Builder magazine named the company's product one of the top 20 most innovative building products introduced in the last two decades. And, in Builder's annual survey of U.S. builders, Hardiplank siding has been rated as the highest-quality lap siding product for the past two years. Golf Course Living cited James Hardie siding products as the No. 1 way to add value to a home, and HOME selected the siding for its 1999 American Building Products award.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Rising above the Entrepreneurial Plateaus

(Last of two-part series)

Last week I discussed how small-business owners often hit no-growth, flat spots in their businesses. They max out production capacity, find an unexplainable ceiling on sales levels or hit the limit on personal performance.

We call these flat spots entrepreneurial plateaus. Every business owner experiences them, but some are able to move onward and upward.

In part one, we showed you how to climb above the profit plateau. This week, we'll explore climbing to new heights above the people and performance plateaus. Lace up your hiking boots.

The people plateau

Your business will never outgrow the quality of the people who work there. You'll never rise above the level you're on if you don't have good people to execute the details.

Here are some ways to find, hire, grow and keep good people. You can use these to take your business to a higher plateau of service.

First, you must create a place where people want to work. Today's employees are looking for interesting jobs where they can use their skills and education. They want to make decisions, help solve problems and feel valued for their accomplishments. They desire room to grow and advance and fair wages and benefits.

Second, know what kind of person and skills you need. Create a job description that spells out the duties, functions and requirements of the job. Then write down what skills, abilities and education are required to do the job well.

Third, find the right person. It's easier to find a match if you know what you're looking for. Take your time during this stage. Don't let a sense of urgency rush you into accepting less than you need.

Fourth, be thorough. Check references carefully. Go beyond the references given. Interview the most qualified candidates more than once. Let the candidates do most of the talking.

Fifth, grow skills to grow results. Training will help your employees take your business to a higher plateau. Train to improve basic job functions, product knowledge, communication skills, customer care and selling skills.

The performance plateau

I've read many books on improving personal performance. I know the seven habits, the seeds of greatness, how to swim with sharks, how to sell my way to the top and how to get what I want through negotiation. I know it's easier to succeed to fail, that timing is everything and that there is chicken soup for every problem. I've learned the success system that never fails, the law of increasing returns and what they don't tell you at Harvard.

I've also learned that none of these books will get me out of bed in the morning. Many authors offer good advice and proven systems for improving performance. But, none of these systems will work if I choose not to work the system. I

GMC recognizes 50-year tradition

Three generations keep service a priority at Pedersen dealership

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Doing anything for a half century is an accomplishment.

While it started as a business selling mules and horses from a family farm, the third generation of the Pedersen family in Antioch is going strong.

Pedersen GMC, located at Routes 45 and 173, has received national recognition from the GMC Corp. in honor of 50 years as a dealer.

The recognition came in a special plaque presentation to current company president Alfred Pedersen. Alfred's father, also Alfred Pedersen, began the family business on the farm located less than one-half mile to the east of the current dealership.

A special employee luncheon was held following the plaque presentation.

"It started out with grandpa selling teams of horses and mules," explained Dean Pedersen, son of the present company owner and a third-generation family member to work in the business.

The company started selling farm implements. Al Pedersen and his brother, the late Robert Pedersen, joined to form a partnership that took over the business from their father.

The brothers moved the location to a building just west of the existing dealership, on the same corner.

Dean is one of three brothers of Al Pedersen continuing the family tradition. Al Jr. and Dale, Dean's twin, also work at the dealership. Robert's son, Gregg, is continuing his side of the family's involvement.

"We cater to the commercial user," Dean Pedersen, who works in sales, said. "Service is what keeps us going. We offer great service which in turn generates a lot of repeat business."

"We realize people make a living with these vehicles," Dean said. "They need it now, not a week from now."

Sales are not high when compared to other GMC dealerships. Dean Pedersen says the company sells between 150-175 vehicles per year, in comparison to some dealerships who deal more in non-commercial sales who may sell that many in a month or even a week.

Pedersen GMC handles mainly the sport utility vehicles such as Sonomas or Sierras. Mid-line utility vehicles such as C&T Series. These include township and village dump trucks, flat beds and van body type vehicles. GMC no longer deals in semi-tractors.

Hours for Pedersen GMC are 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday and closed Sundays.

After 50 years of GMC truck services and sales, Alfred Pedersen, with his sons Dean, Dale, Gregg and Alfred Jr., accepts an honorary award to recognize his dedication to General Motors. Oct. 14. —Photo by Kirsten Hough

Grayslake salesman likes providing security through American Family

By GLORIA DAVIS
Correspondent

Twenty years ago, when Roger Lutz began a career with American Family Insurance in Grayslake, he began a way of life that meant helping people feel secure in their insurance coverage.

October 1999 marks Lutz' 20th anniversary with American Family and he is looking forward to spending the next 20 years continuing to do his best to service his many old and new customers.

He and his wife Trudy became integral members of the Lake County community in 1977, raising their two children Nicholas and Teresa here.

Since 1979, he has been serving the residents of Grayslake and the surrounding area, selling American Family's many lines of insurance products including auto, homeowners, life, renters, mortgage, health, business owners and casualty insurance, as well as making consumer loans.

Lutz and his family live in Wildwood. Nicholas is now 20 and Teresa, 17. He and Trudy will be celebrating another big event next year, their 25th wedding anniversary.

Lutz is a 12-time Centurion Club Honoree, an American Family Life Insurance Leader four times, a top Health Lines Leader twice and an All American Designee three times. He is also a member of the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce, the Lake County Life Underwriters Association and the Jerseyville Cruisers Motorcycle Touring Club.

The Lutz American Family Agency is located at 108 Center St. in Grayslake and is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Wednesday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Abbott reports sales, earnings increase in the third quarter

Abbott Laboratories reported an increase in sales and earnings for both the third quarter and nine months ended Sept. 30.

Worldwide sales for the third quarter were $3.121 billion, up 2.8 percent from $3.036 billion in the third quarter of 1998. As expected, total sales were unfavorably impacted 4.0 percent due to the absence of Abbokinase during the quarter and the introduction of a generic version of Hytrin. In addition, there was a 0.5 percent negative exchange impact due to the effect of the relatively stronger U.S. dollar. Diluted earnings per share for the quarter rose to 38 cents, up 11.8 percent from 34 cents a year ago. Net earnings increased 10.4 percent to $587 million, from $532 million in the third quarter of 1998. During the third quarter, research and development expense was $276 million.

"Our results reflect continued solid performance in most of our businesses with our TAP joint venture performing exceptionally well. As expected, our U.S. pharmaceutical business was negatively impacted by the introduction of a generic form of Hytrin and the absence of Abbokinase during the quarter," said Miles D. White, chairman and chief executive officer. "We continue to lay the foundation for accelerating growth at Abbott. Highlights of the third quarter included progress on the development of new products, the addition of several new licensing agreements, and movement toward the completion of acquisitions made earlier in the year, all of which are paving the way for future growth."

Pharmaceutical products segment sales were $565 million in the third quarter, an 8.3 percent decrease from $617 million in the third quarter of 1998. Sales for TAP Holdings Inc., Abbott's joint venture with Takeda Chemical Industries, Ltd., were $777 million in the third quarter, up 61.4 percent from $481 million in the third quarter of 1998. (While sales from the joint venture are not consolidated in Abbott's net sales, Abbott's portion of TAP's income is included in a separate income line on the consolidated statement of earnings.)

Ross products segment sales were $478 million in the third quarter, a 3.9 percent increase from $460 million in the third quarter of 1998.

Hospital products segment sales were $511 million in the third quarter, a 10.0 percent increase from $464 million in the third quarter of 1998.

International segment sales, including direct exports from the United States, were $749 million, up 3.4 percent from $724 million in the third quarter of 1998. International segment sales were unfavorably impacted 1.7 percent due to the effect of the relatively stronger U.S. dollar. Without the impact of exchange, international segment sales would have increased by 5.1 percent.

chemical and agricultural products segment sales were $66 million in the third quarter, a 16.5 percent decrease from $79 million in the third quarter of 1998.

Total sales in U.S. markets were $1.917 billion, up 1.2 percent from $1.894 billion in the third quarter of 1998. Total international sales, including direct exports from the United States, were $1,204 billion, a 5.4 percent increase from $1,142 billion recorded a year ago.

TAYLOR: Some advice for moving beyond plateaus

So how do you get to the next higher performance plateau? Three easy steps. Well, OK, three really hard steps.

Step One - Know where you are. You must see the plateau. You must be sick of sitting on this level. Only when you're entirely fed up with being where you are will you be motivated to move on to a higher level.

Step Two - You must want to reach a new height. Climbing to a new level will require change. It will require extra effort. It will take commitment. You have to want it badly enough to pay the price.

Step Three - You've must have a plan. Put your goals in writing. Make them clear, specific and measurable. Break your long-term goals into short-term steps. Focus on achieving one step forward today.

Happy climbing. I'll see you at the top.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

I am hoping that you can settle an argument between husband and wife about the new job that was turned down. For 8 months my wife has been seeking employment after being laid off from a customer service job she had for 4 years when the company moved out of state. She was able to collect unemployment compensation during this time, meaning she was receiving some income but no where near the amount of income she was making prior to her layoff. She recently (in the past month) started interviewing for positions that were comparable to what she had before. Basically the same location, type of position, type of business, wages and benefits. Anyway, the reason for my writing is that she had a few offers for employment that she has turned down for reasons that I've tried to explain to her are just plain nuts! For the first time in 8 months, she was excited about the possibility of landing a specific job which she has even referred to as her possible "dream job." Great company name, incredible benefits (paying 100% health coverage), 5 minutes closer in location to our home and a starting salary of $04 an hour less than she was making 8 months before when she was laid off. The offer came through and she tried to negotiate the salary.
However, the company said the salary was fixed and therefore would be at the amount offered with a 6-month review. My wife turned the position down without discussing it with me. She used the excuse that she needed to go up in salary not down and that accepting it would be a slap in the face to her. How can I make her see that she obviously did not weigh out the pros and cons properly and that her thinking is a bit distorted? Please help before another mistake is made for the wrong reasons. R. P.
-Vernon Hills

A: Let's start at the very beginning of your letter. It is disturbing to hear that in this wide open job market, with 4 years of Customer Service under her belt, with unemployment being so low in the county, state and nation, that anyone can justify a reason for spending 8 months living off of unemployment compensation. There isn't a day that goes by where I am not in need of experienced Customer Service Reps for many clients of mine. If you say that your wife had been offered a position that she was finally excited about that offered exactly the benefits, location and type of business she had wanted, then why, oh why would she have turned it down for $04 an hour. You may want to explain to her that she turned down her "dream job" for less than 1¢ per minute! Sounds pretty foolish huh? Anyone taking the first 7 months of lay-off and living off of taxpayers, before even starting to look for a position, has some other motive behind not avidly looking. My guess is that she has now run out of excuses? Nice vacation ... welcome to the real world.
